velop Along Line of Shanghai-Hangchow RailwayBy Associated Press
Shanghai—The fourth day of continuous fighting between rival Chinese armies near Shanghai was completed Tuesday night with no evidence that early termination of the battle could be expected.The fighting Tuesday night reached hand to hand bayonet encounters where a further fierce Kiangsu counter attack was launched near Hwang-tzu on the line of the Shanghai-Nanking railway. Machine gun fire, however, finally forced the retreat with losses to the Kiangsu forces.The battle started on Saturday with opening of an offensive by the Chekiang-Shanghai forces against the besieging Kiangsu province armies.
At 8:30 Tuesday night the muffled rear from the war front some score of miles distant told Shanghai that the entrenched fighters still found strength to continue their conflict.When they retreated, Chekiang leaders asserted, they left 400 dead on the field. Chekiang leaders also claimed that their soldiers had captured and were holding an enormous quantity of arms and munitions.MOVIE HEADQUARTERS Field headquarters of the Chekiang armies at Nanking was removed elsewhere late Tuesday, after several Kiangsu airplanes had dropped bombs on the town.The attack, it was said, was expected to develop along the line of the Shanghai-Hangchow railway, which runs through Sunkiang. Commanders from the three provinces were said to be assembling a powerful military machine with the idea of pressing through and attacking this city from the south.Further indefinite reports were received Tuesday night that a combined attack by the armies of Kiang-su, Fukien and Anhwei provinces against 5,000 Chekiang soldiers left to defend Sungkiang 28 miles south of Shanghai, was impending.Tokio—A Kokusai news agency

COOLIDGE SPEECHBy Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—With President Coolidge's speaking program taking shape for the final weeks of the campaign, it appears unlikely that he will make any visit away from Washington with the possible exception of one to New York City late in October.The president has engagements to speak here on next Saturday at the dedication of the First Division monument and he will deliver two or more addresses here early in October while a tentative date to address the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Oct. 22, is under consideration.
The suggestion has been made, it was said at the White House, for him to speak in New York city on Oct. 27, the celebration of Navy day and the observance also of President Roosevelt's birthday but no decision has been reached on this proposal.BANDITS BLOW VAULT

San Francisco, Calif.—Forty-five alien seamen found employed in ves-

the Pacific coast have been arrested and are held at Angel Island here by the immigration authorities, it became known Tuesday after a suit was instituted by one of their number to test their status.The contention of the immigration officials is that employment in coast-that to engage in it, an alien must

Deadlock In LeagueBy Associated Press
Geneva—A complete accord was reached Tuesday morning by the three statesmen entrusted with the task of finding a solution of the difficulty brought about by the presentation by the Japanese of an amendment to the protocol on arbitration and security and the agreement reached is satisfactory to the Japanese.This was divulged by M. Loucheur, French member of the committee.
The committee composed in addition to M. Loucheur, of Sir Cecil Hurst of England, and Signor Scialoja of Italy, with M. Adachi present, met in private conference in the palace of the league of nations and examined the various formulas designed to solve the Japanese difficulty which had been prepared during the night by each committeeman.A few minutes before M. Loucheur made his announcement, word came from the conference room that the committee was gradually making progress in elaborating the text of one formula, which, it was hoped, would so revise the protocol on arbi-tration and security as to meet the objections of the Japanese and the views of the delegations opposed to the Japanese position.Signor Scialoja told the correspondents after Tuesday morning's meeting that the accord that had been reached would be presented to the subcommittees of the judicial commission at 3 P. M. A full meeting of the arbitration commission has been convened for 3 P. M. for final discussion of the accord.The broad basis of the solution ar-

MA FERGUSON IN TEXAS ELECTIONBy Associated Press
Austin, Tex.—Final decision as to the qualification of Mrs. Miriam A.
Ferguson, the Democratic nominee to be governor of Texas, remained Tuesday to be made by the state supreme court probably next week. District Judge George C. Calhoun, in a verbal opinion Monday brushed aside the common law barriers against the right of a woman to hold office and ruled that Mrs. Ferguson is legally qualified to hold the place to which she aspires.Counsel for the plaintiff, Charles M. Dickson, San Antonio attorney, gave notice of appeal to the court of civil appeals. It was expected that the appellate court in order to expedite the action, would certify the questions to the supreme tribunal which meets next Monday for the coming term.Judge Calhoun's decision was a refusal to grant a temporary injunction to restrain election officials from placing Mrs. Ferguson's name on the ballot in November election. He declared that neither the constitution of Texas nor the statutes bar women from office and that the conceptions of women's position under the old common law as being too delicate for the arduous official duties and as lacking sufficient education had gradually changed as women became more educated and old ideas gave way to the modern conception that women are in all things the equal of men.WHEELER RESUMES TOUR

IN STORM, BELIEFBy Associated Press
Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.—The finding Monday night in upper Lake Huron, two miles east of Albany Island, New York, of wreckage, led marine men to believe that possibly another boat believes the wreckage freighter Clifton foundered in the gale of Sept. 21-22.The wreckage brought in by Clarence Hill who operates a small boat out of Albany Island, consisted of two hatches, two deck trunks, a mattress a barrel of lard oil and part of a wicker chair.
The hatches were red and the trunks load color but there were no identification marks on them. The Clifton is believed to have gone down south of Alpena. Marine men advance the opinion that the wreckage found by Hill may have been from that vessel.
The Clifton, they say, may have been shattered severely just after leaving the straits and been able to proceed down the lake to the point where it sank.MISSOURI, INDIANA

La Follette Has Strong Support
Among Labor Circles in San Francisco

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1924 by The Post Pub. Co.
Los Angeles—California is not as close a state as the various polls and straw votes being taken would seem to indicate.Having investigated the situation in northern California, where unquestionably Senator La Follette has his greatest strength, the writer came away with the impression that the Wisconsin leader would perhaps carry the bay counties by a narrow vote
but if that turns out to be true, Mr.
La Follette will be snowed under just the same by the unusually heavy vote to be given President Coolidge this year in Southern California.The race here is between Coolidge and La Follette with Davis "third."
Little is heard about the Democratic candidate. Had McAdoo been nominated there had been a different story to tell, for this state was strong for McAdoo. Are the Democratic votes going to La Follette? Undoubtedly many thousands will support the Third Party ticket but President Coolidge will get a host of what might otherwise be Democratic votes.DAVIS LACKS STRENGTH
The Democratic nominee is always well spoken of but he does not seem to have any of the strength in California in almost as much regard as he is in Maine. It will be recalled that even when President Harding's popularity began to wane in the east
he could always count on California.This state of course is preponderantly Republican but in the last two years it has also been growing conservative. California for instance, gave President Coolidge a majority of 50,000 votes over its own favorite son in the presidential primaries this year.
In the which will do that can hardly be a state which is easy for La Follette or even tending in his direction.La Follette of course is not without some strong and influential supporters. The Hearst papers are favoring him above all other candidates. Rudolph Spreckels of San Francisco is helping to finance the La Follette campaign. Some of the newspapers which were closest to La Follette, who are shouting for the Socialist ticket, so organized in making a good deal of noise about its advocacy of the old man from Wisconsin.Apparent indifference on the part of newspapers and officials and the manner in which the press avoided any previous reference to the subject, were the most remarkable characteristics of Japan's reception of the pronouncements of Japanese delegates at Geneva.World Flight Affects

Seattle, Wash.—Abandoning the planes in which they completed the first circumnavigation of the globe, six United States Army lieutenants were prepared to leave Seattle at 8:30
Tuesday morning by train for Dayton, O., to witness the international air race. The airman plan to return here later to claim their planes at Sandpoint aviation field."I didn't say goodbye to my plane, chance, just said au revoir," said Lieut.
Lowell H. Smith, commander of the expedition and pilot of the flag plane, Chicago."I merely said goodbye to my plane temporarily," asserted Lieut. Erik Nelsson, engineer of the flight and pilot of the air-cruiser New Orleans.
Lieut. Leigh H. Wade, who piloted the Boston II, also said he hoped to be back after his machine.Lieutenant Smith said Monday night he came "as close to crying when I saw a monument commemorating the world flight at Sand Point Monday as I ever was, because I wasn't expecting it and never thought of a monument with my name on it until my head was under it."The monument, a polished granite wings symbolize a bird alighting at the end of a flight, is the gift of Mrs.U. S. BANKS WILL

200 "Y" WORKERS GET 151 MEMBERS IN FIRST EFFORT

Wattengel's Team Sets Pace in Reports on Tuesday Noon

For the year beginning Oct. 1. The workers were to gather for luncheon at noon Tuesday to make their first reports and it was expected that several hundred would be obtained by that time. The campaign continues Wednesday and Thursday.

Serving of the dinner was accomplished in record time and the workers were dismissed early in the evening armed with application blanks, prospect cards and other data ready for the solicitation.

F. J. Harwood, president of the Y. M. C. A., acted as toastmaster, and George H. Packard, campaign chairman, introduced the speakers. The meeting was opened with community singing led by George Nixon.

Mr. Harwood spoke briefly, expressing his pleasure at seeing a large number of new faces among the workers in each year's campaign. This was an indication that the Y. M. C. A. is gaining additional support each year, he said.

Mr. Packard encouraged the workers to undertake their task gladly and not stop until they see it through. A. C. Remley, associate campaign chairman, gave a talk in which he declared that nobody would want to go back to the old days when there was no Y. M. C. A. and that all should make some sacrifice in order to carry the campaign through. The association must be perpetuated for the sake of the boys, he said.

NO DUPLICATION

Instructions concerning the campaign were given by George F. Werner, general secretary. Everything had been done to prevent duplication of effort this year, he said. All workers were given equal opportunity with others to obtain an equitable selection of names for solicitation, as the record cards were shifted from table to table under a relay plan and each man allowed to take those he desired to see.

Workers were seated by divisions and grouped by teams and the work of assigning prospects moved swiftly. The banner for the winning team and the thermometer which will be placed outside the building to indicate the progress of the campaign were on exhibition.

The meeting closed with a talk by E. F. Denison of Chicago, a member of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. He told the campaign of the immense scope and influence of the organization, quoting figures to show how it reaches out into all the world. He urged the men to conceive their task as something more than merely a local effort.

Several workers have been added to the teams since the list was published. P. M. Lewis and C. A. Fourness have been made members of the team of which George Peotter is captain, and W. F. Wolf has been added to J. L. Johns' team.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Read How Mrs. Walsh Was Helped by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mannington, W. Virginia.—"I took the Vegetable Compound when having the turn of life. I had been sick for seven years. I would get a little better, then I broke down again. It would be hard for me to describe how I was, for I was a perfect wreck. I suffered with a pain in my left side, then I would have numb spells, and I would think I couldn't live. I would have hot flashes, then would come weak spells. I was so weak I would think I couldn't ever get a meal ready. My work was a burden to me. I was not able to do my housework half of the time. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has given me strength and health. The hot flashes left me and I got better of the numb spells. That summer I could do my housework and worked in the garden a good bit. I tell all sick women what your wonderful medicine did for me, and will always recommend it. I am known to all my neighbors, and you can publish this statement because it is true."—Mrs. JOHN W. WALSH, R. No. 1, Box 26, Mannington, West Virginia.

FRENZL, MOTORCOP, RESIGNS BUT WANTS JOB AGAIN IN 1925

County Motorcycle Officer Nabbed 88 Speeders in Four Months

Jack Frenzl, one of the three county motorcycle officers who patrolled the county highways this summer, resigned Tuesday after having announced his intentions some days previous to the county highway committee. The other officers, Wilbur Bogan and Allen Kaufman, will remain on duty until the close of the season which will be in November. It is not likely that a successor will be appointed at this time of the year. Frenzl will leave shortly on a hunting trip into Canada and may spend the winter there. He already has his application filed for reappointment in 1925.

He went on duty on May 30, the last of three officers to be appointed this year. During the four months of service he made 88 of the 192 arrests, or an average of 22 a month. Only one of the drivers he arrested

"I tried several remedies without success. A friend advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I purchased some, and after using one box of Cuticura Ointment and two cakes of Cuticura Soap I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Gladys Nelson, Patoka, Illinois.

Bus drivers, he found, were the men most difficult to arrest because fellow employees or passengers kept a sharp lookout for motorcops and warned the driver to slow down when one was in sight. None of the 88 drivers arrested were women, but most of them were drivers of high powered cars.

We are secretly counting on "Follow the Swallow" being a real success. This selection, so melodious, and enhanced by the playing of Fenton's Orchestra, featuring piano passages by Ohman and Arden, should be unusually successful with every dealer. You are going to hear a great deal about this number, and we earnestly urge every dealer to feature Carl Fenton's playing of "Follow the Swallow."

The vocal chorus in "Not Now, Not Yet, But Soon" on the "B" side will be the feature for that selection. This tune as played by Fenton, is a "rememberable" sort of a song, and everyone who hears this record will be impressed with the splendid recording.

CHERRY-ST PEOPLE HOPEFUL THEY CAN OBTAIN STATE AID

Property Owners Want to Wait
With Paving Until State
Can Act

The possibility of obtaining state aid for paving Cherry-st next year is the motive of property owners living on that street for remonstrating against the immediate paving project.

Petitioners, who comprise the owners of more than half of the property on the street, declare that the work should be postponed until it is definitely known whether state trunk highway 15 will be routed over Cherry-st bridge.

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., however, has the assurance of the divisional engineer of the state highway commission that the state highway will be routed over the bridge, and the new highway commission maps of Outagamie-co show both highway 15 and highway 18 already routed that way. It is not known if the state highway commission will utilize the emergency route of Adams-st to the Cherry-st road until a road is cut directly through to the Menasha-rd. Highway 18, now rerouted to enter the city on Lake-st instead of Second-ave, will connect with Cherry-st via Seymour-st, and is so designated on the new highway maps.

ASK FOR JUSTICE

Under the supposition that highway 15 traffic will not come over the bridge, the petitioners maintain that the present condition of the street is satisfactory and should last for another two years. If the state highway traffic will pass over the street, the petitioners feel that the state should be required to pay for its share of the improvement. If state aid is granted, the burden of the building property owners would be reduced considerably, as it is now being done on Lemnawah-st. The petitioners ask for justice not only for themselves but also for Appleton taxpayers in general. Objection also is directed against the widening of the street, which is now 30 feet. By taking six feet off each side, the city would not only add to the burden of the property owners, but would destroy valuable shade trees, it is argued.

TRUCK GOES ON TEAR AND DRIVER IS HURT

Driving an automobile through a fence into a cornfield adjoining the Mackville-rd, William Young, Second-ave, street department employee, escaped injury, but caused considerable damage to the machine Saturday. The accident occurred about 2 o'clock a mile from the city on highway 47. The road was clear at the time, but the driver lost control of the car. Going north at a high rate of speed, it shot into the ditch out through a wire fence, tore out a fence post and stood almost upright on the front wheels. After swaying to and fro in this position, the automobile dropped back on all four wheels. The Kunitz ambulance was sent to the accident, but Mrs. Young had already arrived and conveyed her husband away in another automobile. Young's injuries were confined to bruises and scratches.

URGE RIPARIANS TO ATTEND MEETINGS

A large attendance of riparians is expected at the series of hearings to be held in Appleton and other places by Major Gliber Van B. Wilkes of the government engineering office at Milwaukee next week.

Special letters have been sent to owners of riparian land by Alan H. Tripp, president of the Association for Relief of High Water, urging their presence. Hearings will be held as follows: Appleton, Thursday, Oct. 9; Duck Creek, Oct. 10, and Shiocton, Oct. 11. The Appleton hearing will start at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, while the hearings at Duck Creek and Shiocton will be at 1:30.

At these hearings special considerations will be given to the advisability of a cutoff canal from Shiocton to Duck Creek. Riparians and water-power users will be given an opportunity of expressing their views on the subject.

MUSICIANS TIPPED OVER INTO CREEK

A large touring car carrying six members of the Mellorimba orchestra, crashed into a culvert on the Ballard Monday morning, on its return from Apple Creek, where the orchestra had played Sunday evening. The car belonged to Lawrence Koss, 748 Second-ave, and the driver, blinded by the lights of an oncoming car, misjudged the distance between the car and the culvert. The car tipped over into the water, giving all the occupants a good wetting, but no one was hurt. The top of the car was smashed.

High School Student Works Weeks To Build Small Yacht

LELAND HANSELMAN AND HIS MODEL OF THE YACHT "REL-ANCE."

ONE of the finest pieces of work-manship that a student of the manual training department of Appleton high school has ever made is a model of the yacht, "Reliance," which is the work of Leland Hanselman of Dale, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hanselman. The youth, a senior, made the boat during the summer at home. It has been on display at the high school.

The boat was copied from a picture of "The Reliance," which appeared in a Milwaukee newspaper. It is made of white pine and the fittings are made of brass, all filed by hand. Hanselman made his own model of the keel in wood and then made a plaster cast of it. In the plaster cast form he cast a lead keel.

An example of the pains taken to make the boat perfect is the deck, which is an excellent imitation of one made of planks. The boat is equipped with an automatic rudder. The length of the boat is 50 inches and the height is 60 inches. It weighs 12 pounds. Hanselman spent about a month and a half working on it and figures that it cost about $10 without labor. Not long ago he received an offer of $25 for it.

ENROLLMENT AT COLLEGE GREATER THAN LAST YEAR

Students From Several Foreign Countries Registered at Lawrence

While exact figures on registration at Lawrence college have not been completed, the registration will be over that of last year, according to Dr. Samuel Plantz. Dr. Plantz said that a large number of students from foreign countries, including several Japanese and Chinese young people had enrolled.

Under a system inaugurated a year ago the college refuses to admit students who in their scholastic standings are not in the upper four-fifths of their class. One student from Kentucky and another from Montana, after arriving in Appleton, were refused admittance to the school because of this.

The college also has ruled that no person who has been dropped from any other university or college, especially the University of Wisconsin, will be admitted to Lawrence college.

Happy Is The Mother when the baby is well

Constipation is the bane of babies. Prevent it with half a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

It requires no long experience in the bringing up of children to understand that food waste must pass out of the system promptly, and so the intelligent mother will watch the baby's stools.

In infancy the child should have two or three passages in 24 hours, and in childhood one or two. Less than that will soon tell in canker sores, coated tongue, foul breath and restlessness. As these signs develop, promptly give half a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in a few hours the symptoms will vanish.

Thousands of mothers have reared proud families with no other medicine than Syrup Pepsin, for it has relieved their families of constipation for thirty years. Rev. Mary F. Malcolm, Belle River, Ill., and Mrs. James Richmond, Sterlingville, N. Y., have had great success with it and constantly urge others to use it.

Here you have a laxative ideally suited to family purposes, as it acts gently and without gripping, is exceptionally pleasant to take, and contains no opiates or narcotics.

The formula is clearly stated on every package and is a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and agreeable aromatics. A bottle, which can be had at any drug store, lasts a family month, and costs an average of less than a cent a dose. Give one-half to a teaspoonful, according to age, for constipation, biliousness, loss of appetite, flatulence, belching, and to ward off fevers and colds. You will be grateful to see your child have natural sleep without the use of opiates.

Use it yourself and give it to the adults in the family. There will be less sickness, less absence from work and school. When you see what Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin does for you you will discard pills and powders and salts and coal-tar drugs disguised in candy. A remedy like this, that sells over 10 million bottles annually, the largest sale in the world, must have superior merit. We guarantee it or refund your money.

Free Sample Bottle Coupon
There are people who very rightly prefer to try a drug before they buy it. Let them clip this coupon, pin their name and address to it, and send it to the Syrup Pepsin Co., 518 Washington Street, Monticello, Illinois, and a free sample bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will be sent them postpaid by mail. Do not inclose postage. It is free.

WISCONSIN TAXES
The La Follette-Wheeler National committee is sending out a leaflet headed "Taxes in Wisconsin not any Higher than in other States." This campaign document is in reply to statements made by the Republican National committee to the effect that taxes in Wisconsin are high. Various methods may be utilized to show that taxes are comparatively high or low. Some of them are of little value and others are principally designed to distort or misrepresent the facts.

The Progressive party figures are based on the per capita tax. They profess to show that in 1923 the per capita tax in Wisconsin was lower than in Michigan, Minnesota and Iowa. They admit that taxes were lower in Illinois. The figures for Indiana and Ohio are not given. Comparison of this character is of no real significance. The per capita tax would naturally depend upon the extent to which public improvements were prosecuted in the several states and upon varied community requirements. Neither is a tax rate in itself conclusive as to the burden of taxation. It all depends on what the money is used for and upon what benefits accrue to the public.

When the various tax bills were pending in the legislature at the last session the Post-Crescent compiled at great length statistics showing a comparison of taxes in cities of Wisconsin and a large number of cities in other manufacturing states, including those contiguous to Wisconsin. All of the cities were selected at random without any previous knowledge of their local or state taxes, and the investigation showed that taxes in Wisconsin were not only higher, but in some instances under the proposed shifting of taxes to industry, would be more than double those in neighboring states.

The facts are that manufacturing in Wisconsin is penalized in more ways than one by our tax laws. It has become difficult to induce new capital to come into the state, some of our industries are building large branches out of the state and are preparing to move their offices and eventually plants to other states. The publicity clause in the income tax return law, which has not proved of the slightest benefit to the state, has also caused capital to give Wisconsin a wide berth. These are facts that all of the campaign sophistry and political dishonesty in the world cannot cover up. If there is extravagance in other states that is no reason why we should have extravagance in Wisconsin in the use of the public funds. This extravagance is attested by the enormous increase in state expenditures in recent years, and by the further fact that we have accumulated a large surplus. The toll to politics in this state has been millions upon millions of dollars, and the tribute is moreover increasing by leaps and bounds.

This newspaper has no interest in the game of politics as such. If the taxpayer and producer of Wisconsin were to take the same attitude and consider state government as a business which ought to be conducted economically and efficiently, they would bring about a housecleaning at Madison to their lasting good in the shape of reduced taxes and the receiving of far more for the taxes they pay. This much is perfectly clear to any unprejudiced observer, regardless of his politics or political theories.

SMITH IN NEW YORK
New York state is to be a great battleground in the presidential election. An altogether unique situation is presented by the re-nomination of Governor Smith by the Democratic party. Governor Smith did not want to run again. He made every effort to escape heading the state ticket, and was perfectly sincere in his position. But the exigencies of politics demanded that he sacrifice his personal wishes to the interests of his party. The Democrats virtually conceded to themselves that they had no chance to carry New York unless Mr. Smith headed the ticket. He is one of the most popular governors New York has ever had, and has given the state a praiseworthy administration.

The Republicans have countered by nominating Col. Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of navy, as their candidate for governor. Young Roosevelt has a good record in the administrative department of the federal government, but his selection is obviously to capitalize in favor of the Republican party the prestige of his father's name.

Governor Smith should carry New York so far as the state ticket goes. Whether he can pull through the Democrat electors for Davis and Bryan is the question to be decided within the next thirty days. It will be a tremendous campaign. We should not be surprised to see Smith elected and Coolidge and Dawes carry the state despite the strength given the Democratic ticket by its influential governor.

THE GYPSY TRAIL
A gypsy queen named Viona Mitchell, dying in a New York town, advises her people to settle down and become citizens. Good advice, any American would say. But advice that will hardly be taken.

There are about fifty thousand gypsies leading their strange life in the United States today, singing songs centuries old, living by tribal customs too ancient to trace, dancing to the czardas, buying and selling wives, reading fortunes, peddling patent medicines, beating copper, accumulating funds, able to buy property, but always preferring the freedom of the outcast, ever driven on by the call of the outcast and the open field and the town that lies beyond. Some racial trait, and no reason, forces this wandering.

Their language strikingly like the Hindu, it has been common belief for some time that gypsies—the true Romanies, to be found in practically every land on earth, and always the same—came originally from India; and probably Queen Viona will find, despite her sensible advice, that "only the hearthstone of old India"—as the poet said—"will end the endless march of gypsy feet." If good advice had ruled them, gypsies would have slipped imperceptibly into orderly society ages ago. Something stronger than wisdom and older than history keeps them moving on.

TODAY'S POEM

A LITTLE old mailbox stands out in the road and it plainly is marked "R. F. D." A heap of real sentiment in it is sewed though it means naught to you or to me.
A little old lady and little old man care not if the thing looks forlorn. It's well served its purpose as any box can and a pathway out to it they've worn.
Each day when the mail man is making his run he stops; then he's soon on his way. The rural old people rush out, and it's fun just to see what he's left them each day.

A mail order house sends a catalogue fine. It's bulky as bulky can be. But nevertheless they will read every line and all of the pictures they'll see.
The other odd things that are carelessly hurried and that lighten the mail master's load, just keep rural people in touch with the world through the mailbox that stands in the road.

Health Talks

ANOTHER TIRED BUSINESS MAN
His doctor calls him "an aggressive high strung business man," aged 43, who complained of a consistent dull ache over the occiput—that's the back of the neck—slight dizziness, restlessness, insomnia and depression.
A tired business man, sure enough.
These symptoms had developed only two weeks previously, and I'm afraid the doctor fell in with the t. b. man's notion that the trouble was attributable to "intense worry relative to business affairs which had become seriously entangled." The t. b. m. remarked that for the first time in his life he had lost his "pop."

This young man organized a business of his own at the age of 23 years, and devoted himself to it with fanatical intensity because he loved his business and the competition in it. He had no interest in the popular diversions. He took little time off and few vacations. All this is negative stuff, but important.

The young man used liquor moderately and like most quiet boozers he particularly emphasized that he took it only in a "social way." That isn't so negative. He was also "an incessant cigar smoker." That's very positive. Whenever you encounter the term incessant or inveterate in relation to a man's use of tobacco you may get ready for something to break.

The young man weighed 178 pounds. How tall he was his doctor carefully omits to say, but the doctor does say the man was "adequately nourished." Sounds kinda flabby to me. The young man probably ate as intemperately as he drank and smoked, and he was one of those small caliber men who get so "entangled" or taken up with business that they just can't take time to exercise. So you see the young man was headed for a fall. And he fell.

His heart seemed normal in size and position, but his pulse rate was rather fast. I won't count it, but we'll just say it was a wee speck too fast. The systolic blood pressure was well within normal limits, and so was the diastolic pressure. Never mind just how many millimeters of mercury, but remember his blood pressure was all right.

No abnormality was elicited in the examination of the nervous system. Wasserman test negative. Urinalysis negative except for indican excess, which doesn't mean much, unless the patient is on a restricted diet.

The patient displayed considerable emotion when his family and business affairs were touched upon. That's not so negative, either. He became a little tearful in telling how his pride was crushed and his life work fair to be fruitless and all that. His doctor strongly advised change and rest, but of course the patient could not think of leaving his business!

Nine days later the doctor was hurriedly summoned and found the young business man comatose, face flushed and swollen, body in cold sweat, breathing labored. The patient had complained early in the morning of dizziness and nausea, had walked to the bath room, vomited, and fell in a kind of convulsion.

Necropsy disclosed an extensive hemorrhage into the central part of the brain, apoplexy, from diseased arteries.
A sad story which happens too often because men get to taking business too seriously and their own lives too.

What caused the diseased arteries in that business man's brain? Who knows? But I'd hazard a guess that intemperance in smoking, drinking and eating had something to do with it, and neglect of exercise helped the disease along.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Tuesday, Oct. 3, 1899.

Admiral Dewey received a continuous ovation on a trip from New York to Washington.
War preparations among the Boers were reported from South Africa.

Wisconsin, Indiana and Michigan were being urged by Missouri to join the fight against the Chicago drainage canal.

Al Zieher of Neenah killed a lynx measuring 5 feet 6 inches from head to tail.

Over 600 hunters licenses had been granted by the county clerk.

Workmen started grading Lawrence-st preparatory to macadamizing it.

There must be a lot of Irish in Wisconsin cities and villages. Why? Because it takes them so long to get home rule.

Twenty-five years, so the retrospective editor informs us, the states of Wisconsin, Michigan and Indiana were fighting the Chicago drainage canal. And they're at it yet. Again we say, there must be a lot of Irish in these states.

Maybe LaFollette is Irish, for like W. J. B. he has been at it for 25 years.

HONEYMOON HINTS
(County Clerk Hantschel presents every prospective marital couple with a card containing some helpful advice for a happy marriage. In the columnist's judgment, he should have added a few more.)
To the bridegroom: If you talk in your sleep, see a doctor first.
To the bride: Don't get discouraged. The first 25 cakes are the hardest. After that you can take the knife instead of the saw.

To him: If you like to live long, don't laugh at your wife in company.
To her: If you hate divorcees, don't go to the neighbors to tell them how much money you owe.

To him: If you like excitement and cannot afford to go to the Wild West movies, bring company to dinner without first announcing it.
To her: To add zest to the dullness of the marital routine invite your mother to stay with you for the winter.

Auto Outdoes State's Cows
From The Wisconsin Motorist.
Total valuation of Wisconsin's automobiles has jumped until now motor propelled vehicles in the state are valued at more than twice as much as all of Wisconsin's cattle.
The faithful cow still numbers four to every gas wagon that buzzes by the pastures but the average valuation of the animals is placed at $40 each while a fair average for the motor vehicles is given as $500.
The secretary of state's office estimates that the automobiles in Wisconsin roughly would be worth $250,000,000. Agriculturists say that the state has 3,075,000 head of cattle of all kinds with a total valuation of $123,000,000.
If there are hard times in the state it is not reflected in a comparison of the automobile and dairy industries. Dairyming has boomed but automobile riding is more popular than milking bossy.
In 1922 the total value of all of the state's dairy products was $200,828,249, nearly $50,000,000 short of the value of the state's automobiles this year.
Gasoline consumption has boosted along even faster than that of ice cream. The production of ice cream in the state has become a mighty industry with nearly 6,000,000 gallons manufactured in the state in a year. But during the month of May alone, Wisconsin motorists used a total of 19,334,650 gallons of gasoline.
A year's production of ice cream in the state is valued at something over $7,000,000. In less than two months Wisconsin people spend more than that for gasoline. The state oil inspection department figures that with an average of 20 cents a gallon there would have been a total of $3,866,910 spent for gasoline during the last month. Because kerosene is not generally used as a motor fuel there were but 493,550 gallons of that liquid sold in Wisconsin in May.

Three Symbols In Christianity
(From Origin of Christian Church Art. by Josef Strzygowski)
Islam has no religious representation. Starting among the nomads of Arabia, it broke through the Hellenistic-Indian barrier in a northeasterly direction, and soon ceased to build with stone, after the fashion of Christianity, which preceded it in Syria, Asia Minor and Armenia, adopting instead the Mesopotamian and Persian material, brick.
It covered its brick walls in an un-Hellenic and un-Indian manner with geometrical repeating patterns, which originated in the use of diverse materials and crafts and produced their effects by openwork, by slant-cut surfaces, by sheen or color, never by the plastic representation of natural forms in light and shade. * * * Islam adorned the walls of places of worship with surface-filing design, not admitting the human figure even as a means of giving the scale for the parts of the building. * * *
India originally had no representation of Buddha, so, too, in Iran the figure of Christ was not represented. Mazdaism made use of religious symbols. Similarly the Aryans in India regarded as emblems of divinity the wheel, the tree, and later the stupa, but not originally the human form.
In the East Aryan region the Christians universally adopted the cross as their favorite symbol of Christ. In fact, we might regard it as one of the three means of depicting the religious founder, the Iranian. The other two were the Greek unbarbed type of Christ, and the Semitic bearded type. We cannot here discuss the origin of the cross itself. The vision of Constantine gives food for reflection.

WORK AND PLAY HIS ADVICE
John Hawkins of Richmond, Ind., thanks hard work and dancing, with violin playing as a side issue, for keeping him young. He's just 90 and has worked as a blacksmith for the past 65 years. Also, he has played tunes on the same violin for the past 35 years. Hardly a week passes that does not see Hawkins at at least one dance.

Q. Does the air from an electric fan blowing on a thermometer affect the mercury to an appreciable extent? If so, does it rise or fall? J. D. B.
A. The Bureau of Standards says that, as a rule, air from an electric fan blowing on a thermometer will have no essential effect on the mercury. If a very sensitive thermometer is placed in front of a fan it may, however, cause a slight rise in temperature inasmuch as the air which passes by the motor becomes slightly heated.
Q. What countries form Czechoslovakia? R. T.
A. The republic was made from remnants of the old Austro-Hungarian Empire. It consists of Bohemia, Moravia, Slovakia, Silesia and Ruthenia. It has an area of 64,241 square miles and a population of about 13,600,000.

A. In 1923, the Patent Office received 102,273 applications for patents, trademarks, etc., and granted 39,004.
Q. Will Strongheart work with anyone, except his master? W. B.
A. This super-intelligent police dog is a "one man dog" and performs only for his master.
Q. How many trips did the Leviathan make during the war, and how many has she made since? W. A. B.
A. The War Department says that the Leviathan made nineteen round trips during the recent war. She began her first trip December 15, 1917. The first trip made by the Leviathan after she was reconditioned, after the World war, was made July 4, 1923. She made a total of eight return trips in 1923. She was laid up from December 3, 1923 until April 12, 1924, on which date her first voyage this year was made. She is now on her sixth voyage, making a total of fourteen round trips since the World war.
Q. Is the White Minorca a sport from the mating of Black Minorcas? T. M.
A. They are claimed to be sports from mating Black Minorcas. By the term "sport" is meant the springing into existence of individuals entirely different from the ancestors, and of course very much out of line from what is naturally expected from the ancestors. Like a white chicken from black ancestors.

CITY UTILITY GETS PUBLIC SUPPORT IN LIGHT RATE QUIZ

Wish of Citizens is Revealed At Hearing By Rate Commission Monday

Kaukauna—Just what decision the Wisconsin Rate commission will make relative to the rate for commercial electricity in the city of Kaukauna will not be known for some time although a formal hearing of investigation of the rates, rules and practices of the municipal electric department was conducted at 10 o'clock Monday morning in the council chambers. Commissioner A. R. MacDonald, formerly a resident here, conducted the hearing. G. C. Mathews, statistician, and a reporter were the only other persons present.

When asked as to the reason for the hearing Mr. Mathews explained there had been some complaints from this city but that the paramount reason for conducting the investigation was that Kaukauna was one of several cities whose records for the last few years had been examined by the commission and that an investigation had been deemed advisable.

OPPOSE REDUCTION

The attitude of many citizens was clearly revealed when petitions from both sides of the river and signed by several hundred taxpayers were presented to the commission before the meeting opened. The petitions asked the commission not to require a reduction in rates at this time. It is apparent that the people who have been following the development of the utility department and have noted its benefit to the community are heartily in favor of the present rate of 9 cents per kilowatt hour for commercial electricity. The city municipal building and the municipal garage, the latter now under construction, have been created from the surplus earnings of the department without a cent of cost to the taxpayers.

Mr. Raught and Mr. Posson were questioned continually by Mr. Mathews. It was revealed that the local department is supplying more current than its power plant can generate. The present power plant has a capacity of 2,000 kilowatts while its present load amounts to approximately 2,900 kilowatts, necessitating the purchase continually of several hundred kilowatts from the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power Co. That was given as one point against the proposed reduction in rates.

WANT POWER PLANT

The thought was expressed that the purchase of a power plant should be made before rates are reduced. Effort has been made for several years to interest the Green Bay Mississippi and Canal Co., who are present owners of the water power, in an additional investment of approximately $500,000 which would greatly increase Kaukauna's electrical power facilities and would give the city a wonderful opportunity to offer power inducements to new industries locating here.

It was explained that a desirable contract had practically been agreed upon with the company and the city but that all negotiations have now been discontinued, pending the results of the findings of the commission.

Mr. Mathews, when questioned, following adjournment of the hearing declared it will be some time before a decision is reached by the commission. The body has several other investigations on schedule, he explained. It also will be necessary, he said, to send a man to Kaukauna to go over detailed records and reports of the local electric department, records which could not easily be brought up at the hearing.

Helps You Gain Strength and Put on Needed
Weight—Great

Nothing like the vitamins in Cod Liver Oil to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well—everybody knows that.

But nobody wants to take the disgusting horrible tasting stomach upsetting oil itself, so nowadays, up to date medical men are ordering a tablet of Cod Liver Oil and it surely does do the work.

Ask Schiltz Bros., Downer's Drug Store or any regular druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets. They are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on five pounds or over in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist will return your money if you don't take on five pounds in 30 days.

Great for weak, run-down children, too, and gives them a hearty appetite—50 tablets, 50 cents.

Get in Front of a Westinghouse COZY GLOW

"These frosty mornings and chilly evenings always 'got me' 'till Dad brought home Cozy Glow. Oh, Boy, what a difference! It sends out heat the way the spot light on our automobile throws light. Only Cozy Glow is better because when a fellow's cold, he's cold all over, and that was me until Dad 'came across' with a real Westinghouse Cozy Glow."

THOUGHTS OF AN EMPTY HOUSE—

"I feel terribly conspicuous, with this big 'For Sale' sign hanging on me—but I don't seem to attract much attention. I guess nobody wants to buy me."

"It's all I can do to hold my chimney up in a nice neighborhood like this. All these houses around me have families living in them and I know they look down on me because I don't have any family or friends or anything."

"There's an automobile stopping in front of me now, but it can't be anybody to see me. I've been empty for three months and the only person who's been around to look at me was some kind of a tax assessor."

"Say! I guess I'm wrong—my owner is showing me to those three men. They're coming in to look me over. I'm all excited over this!"

"Sold! Can you beat that? That man who bought me said he'd have taken me three months ago, but he didn't. Now I was for sale until my owner put that ad in the Real Estate columns of The Post-Crescent today."

"I might have known that!"

Do you know How simply oil heat fits your present furnace?

Learn the facts now about clean oil heat, which gives constant automatic warmth, 24 hours a day all winter. Now offered by a new plan on easy terms. Read this expert advice:

MANY people who want oil heat in their homes do not realize how simple it is to have it installed.

They know that oil is cleaner, more dependable, than coal. That it is economical, automatic. They know that in the past 5 years countless thousands of homes have adopted it. But they think it means a change in the radiators, a new boiler perhaps. This is not so.

Let us make this suggestion: Write for our new book on Home Comfort. Read it. Compare what it says with your own experiences with coal.

Learn from this new book all about Kleen-Heet, the oil-system it tells about. Then see rival oil-burners. Weigh the facts. Compare.

Talk to an engineer Let us send an engineer to examine your present heating plant. An expert, who will advise you frankly and honestly.

He will tell you just which style of Kleen-Heet is adapted for your home. Most makers of oil-burners have but one or two types to offer you.

Kleen-Heet, made by the oldest and largest makers of automatic oil-burners, comes in a wide variety adaptable for every type of home.

This engineer will tell you what your exact type of Kleen-Heet will cost. And how inexpensively it can be operated. You will find that, from savings over old-fashioned coal, it will almost pay for itself.

He will tell you how long it takes to install it—will give you all the facts.

It takes a remarkably short time for our skilled workmen to put the Kleen-Heet system in. The furnace need be disturbed only for about two hours, while the new fire-pot is put in to take the place of the old grate. Your house doesn't even change in temperature during installation.

Our engineer will tell you that Kleen-Heet burns in oil about the equivalent to the hard coal you have been using. That in many cases it burns much less. Every drop of oil is fuel, while today coal is filled with non-inflammable slag and slate.

He will explain about the thermostat which is placed in the living room, and how you set it, at the beginning of the cold season. After that, Kleen-Heet automatically maintains the exact degree of heat you wish, day and night—without further attention.

Our engineer will tell you about oil delivery, too. A swift motor truck glides to the curb and makes a hose connection. In a few minutes your tank is filled—no muss, no bother. Clean, quiet, efficient.

Let us send this expert to help you decide. Get the new book. Learn the honest facts about oil heat. What it does, what you can expect of it, costs, etc. Just mail the coupon.

News About And For Farmers

ROADSIDE ALFALFA GROWING TEACHES FARMER SECRET

Practice Proves Limestone —Also Makes Highways Beautiful

BY W. F. WINSEY
Greenville.—For several years a few Greenville farmers have been raising alfalfa on the public roads passing their farms.

Because the roadside is dusted with great quantities of powdered limestone, there is no farm in existence on which alfalfa will grow more luxuriantly than on a roadside. Moreover, a large fraction of each farm is fenced off for public use as a road and the owner is short of land and feed for his stock often for this reason.

By beginning on the roadside, farmers without successful experience learn the trick of raising alfalfa on their cultivated fields and by using the road for the crop, all the land a farmer owns becomes indisputably available and increases his profits.

Green and purple ribbons of alfalfa bordering a public highway are more sightly than are gardens of flowers. Even the speeder subject to official interference slows down and stops in admiration as he enters such an avenue.

Then again, alfalfa smotherers and destroyers prevalent, unsightly, noxious weeds that infest the highway where alfalfa has not gained a foothold. The farmer who plants alfalfa on the road cuts the crop himself without orders because it pays him to do so.

Alfalfa growing on the roadside, therefore, increases the pleasure of driving for the public, gives the stranger a favorable impression of the country and decreases the cost of road maintenance. For the farmer it does away with his hatred of noxious weeds and increases his profits.

In the near future, the alfalfa experiment of the Greenville farmers will become the practice of all farmers throughout Outagamie-co.

COUNTY IS TRAILER IN COW TEST CLUBS

Only Three Reported Here—Clark-co Leads With Twelve Now Functioning

Outagamie-co trails the list of Wisconsin counties which have cow testing associations, a tabulation drawn up by Prof. G. C. Humphrey of the Wisconsin college of agriculture, shows. Clark-co is the leader, with 12 such associations; Outagamie has three.

Monroe-co ranks second with eight cow testing associations, while Barron and Marathon each have seven associations.

Other leading counties in cow testing work with the number of associations in each are: Dane-co 6, Grant 6, Waukesha 6; Rock 5, Dane 5, Oshkosh 5, Chippewa 5, Pierce 5, Fond du Lac 4, Brown 4, Washington 4, Richland 4, Waupaca 4, Polk 4, Manitowish 3, Dodge 3, Crawford 3, Calumet 3, Outagamie 3, Portage 3.

RACINE-CO LEADING IN CABBAGE YIELD

Madison.—Racine-co promises to be the banner county in Wisconsin again this year. Paul O. Nyhus, state-federal crop statistician, reports. The county produced 45,419 tons of cabbage last year and showed an increased acreage this year, it is said.

The state's cabbage acreage remains approximately the same as last year, reports show. Last year's total was 13,300 acres for commercial purposes.

Library Has Books That Are Of Help To Farmer

Every progressive farmer, just like every other professional man, wants to have his library of books pertaining to his profession complete, and though there are thousands of good books to choose from, it takes a great deal of experience to choose books that are appropriate and up to date.

A list of the best books on agriculture has been compiled by C. S. Hean, librarian, Wisconsin college of agriculture, as an aid to those who desire a few general books covering a wide range of subject.

Hean urges that these books should be found in the library of every farmer, as they deal with the fundamentals of agriculture and he declares that this basic knowledge is necessary.

The list: Craik's "Common Diseases of Farm Animals"; Hoot's "Farm Horticulture"; Henry and Morrison's "Feeds and Feeding"; Lewis's "Productive Farm Crops"; Plumb's "Beefing in Animal Husbandry"; Ramsower's "Production of Good Farm"; Wells's "Production of Good Farm"; Warren's "Farm Management"; and Wolfe's "Handbook for Farmers and Dairyman."

American Farm Has Its Yodeler

The Swiss have their yodelers. The American corn belt has its hog callers.

No yodeler has a greater variety of vocal tricks, it is pointed out, than the really expert hog caller. There is the far-sounding falsetto, "Who-o-o-o-y" when the pigs are far off in the pasture. There is the rapid and nervous "Pig-pig-pig" to arouse a bunch of lazy porkers near at hand. And there is the gushing, spell-defying call that is used when a bucket of swill is about to go splashing into the trough.

Acreage Of Alfalfa Here Is Doubled

A material increase in the alfalfa acreage of Outagamie-co is noted. Area yielding alfalfa in this county comprises 7,072 acres according to Paul O. Nyhus, federal crop statistician. Since the acreage a year ago was only 3,126, the area has been more than doubled.

The total alfalfa acreage for the state this year is 210,346. Fond du Lac has the largest acreage with 21,064 acres; Waukesha-co is second with 20,801, while Outagamie-co ranks about fourteenth in the list. The acreage for Winnebago-co is 15,679, for Burnett-co 7,429, for Waupaca-co 4,704, for Brown-co 4,533. Vilas-co has the smallest alfalfa acreage with only two acres sown there.

LIME PRODUCES WORTHY CLOVER

Clover Rotation Keeps Soil Supplied With Sufficient Nitrogen

Lime makes clover and clover makes for soil fertility.

This is what A. F. Gustafson of the New York state college of agriculture at Ithaca says in pointing out that clover is a most important crop in rotations. Without clover, he says, it is difficult and costly to keep the soil well supplied with nitrogen.

"Clover and alfalfa," he adds, "are the cheapest and probably the best source of protein for dairy cows. These legumes, he says, cut early and cured properly supply absolutely essential vitamins for cows. Legumes also provide lime and phosphorus so necessary for milk production and for the normal development of a healthy calf. Abortion is less likely to be prevalent among cows fed plenty of alfalfa and good clover hay."

"Both of these crops need plenty of lime in the soil for fair growth. Much of the southern and eastern parts of the state need from one to one and one half, and, on exceptionally sour soils, two tons of limestone, or its equivalent, for red clover. Alfalfa and sweet clover require even more."

"Limestone may be applied on fall-plowed land as soon as the fields are dry enough to get on them; it may be worked in while making the seedbed preparatory to drilling the spring grain and clover seed. Burned or hydrated lime may be applied after the soil is dry enough to stir, and should be mixed with the soil very soon after spreading. Any form of lime should be mixed very thoroughly with the soil for the best results with either clover or alfalfa."

"Good acclimated, domestic northern clover seed is also necessary to obtain a good red clover hay crop."

Outagamie, Kenosha and Milwaukee are the other leading cabbage counties of the state. The crop is reported to be in excellent condition.

He Gives Away Purebreds To Bayfield-Co Farmers

Herbster, Wis.—Fostered by a Chicago physician, a dairymaking foundation of purebred Guernseys, that promises to be a model for the rest of the country, is being built in this vicinity.

On the shore of Lake Superior, in Upper Wisconsin, is the farm of Dr. J. B. Kleinhaus. Eight years ago this 520-acre tract near here was cut-over timberland. No it is a modern farm where only purebred stock is being raised.

The physician is known not only for his successful efforts in dairymaking, but especially for altruistic endeavors. Farmers in Bayfield county can show some of their purebred Guernsey stock which they had been receiving without cost from Dr. Kleinhaus.

It is Dr. Kleinhaus's hobby to raise purebred dairy cattle and furnish them free to needy farmers in Upper Wisconsin. There are no strings to his gifts, except that the animals receive kind attention. He gets the help of his farm manager, Harry Dubey, and the Bayfield county agent, and through them seeks out farmers whose funds are limited through light crop yields or newly removed stump land.

As a result Dr. Kleinhaus is well on his way toward building a modern dairymaking center of purebred Guernseys in this neighborhood. His two daughters, Josephine and Hazel, plan to take an agricultural course at Madison, so they may be able to continue their father's work. They are now attending a Chicago high school.

Dr. Kleinhaus scorned seven titles of German nobility when he came to America and took up citizenship here.

What Your Neighbor Is Doing

(This column relates interesting things that are going on at the farms in this vicinity. Every farmer is invited to contribute items about his crops, herds, poultry or his farm itself. Mail or telephone them to "Farm Editor.")

Albert Grosnick, who lives near Dale, has erected an attractive new home on his farm. It is almost complete and he will occupy it soon.

For obvious reasons never more strongly presented to the dairyman than during the wet weather this season, the most valuable improvement that can be made in a farmyard is a floor of concrete. This kind of improvement was made in the yard of Otto Mielke, a town of Osborn farmer, ten years ago. It was never appreciated more than this season. The same improvement installed in the yard of Edward Mielke about the same time.

Otto Mielke town of Osborn invented and is using a rapid and effective method of mending grain sacks. Thimbles, thread and needles are useless in the practice of his art. A patch of the material of which the sack to be mended is made, rye flour paste and scissors are for a full list of tools and accessories required. A little practice with Mr. Mielke's invention insures a perfect, durable patch and does away with all awkwardness in fitting thimbles and threading needles, loss of temper, and with the necessity of using the explosive words adapted to the old method of mending grain sacks.

COOLING AND CLEANSING PREVENT "ROPY" MILK

Madison.—When milk gets "ropy" the milkman gets in bad.

"Ropy" milk may occur at any time when temperature and other conditions favor its development," states E. G. Hastings of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture. It is most often troublesome during the spring and fall when special care is not always taken to keep milk cool.

Bacteria are the cause of ropy milk. Hastings says. Proper cooling usually keeps them from doing any harm. Most of the guilty kinds must have air for their growth. This accounts for the condition being so often confined to the cream or top layer of milk.

Sterilization of all milk utensils is recommended in fighting ropy milk. Plenty of boiling water or steam will do it. On the farm where a large supply of hot water is not always convenient and for large cans which are hard to cleanse, except with steam, a weak solution of bleaching powder (calcium hypochlorite) is good. Sterilization of all utensils and care in cooling milk promptly and keeping it cold will do much to prevent this undesirable condition.

PROPRIETOR OF HOTEL SAYS HE'S CONVINCED

John Peltier Declares Tanlac Proved Its Merit By Restoring His Health.

"My experience with Tanlac has convinced me that it is a medicine of the greatest merit," is the candid statement of John H. Peltier, well-known proprietor of the Arlington Hotel, 2128 Hall Ave., Marinette, Wis.

"For two years my stomach was in such a bad fix that I would suffer from gas and pains for hours after every meal. I had frequent nervous spells, my sleep was unsound and I was tired and devoid of energy. I would have to confine myself to a diet of milk and eggs for days at a time."

"Tanalac straightened me up so quick as to completely surprise me. Now my stomach is like new, my troubles are gone and my health is fine. I regard Tanlac as a matchless medicine."

Tanalac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Tanalac Vegetable Pills for constipation; made and recommended by the manufacturers of Tanlac. adv.

TAKES MUCH CORN TO FILL HIS SILO

Fred Behling of Darboy Finds His Crop of Sugar Beets Virtual Failure

BY W. F. WINSEY

With respect to the comparative yield of corn this year and last, Fred Behling, Darboy-co, says that he filled his silo 14 feet by 14 feet, last fall with ten acres of well ripened corn, and that he cannot do the job this fall with less than 20 acres. His corn is not grazed and should have at least one more week to mature.

On account of the possibility of frost, he commenced filling his silo. Parts of Mr. Behling's field was damaged by cutworms last spring and had to be replanted. Some fields of corn in the vicinity of Mr. Behling's farm are better than his and many make a worse showing which goes to show that his field is somewhere near the average.

Of sugar beets, Mr. Behling said that on low-land the crop is a total failure. The beets have either entirely disappeared or the root tips of the plants that have withstood the wet, cold weather show signs of rot. He planted four acres on low-land. The plants got a good start but later were entirely drowned out. He has ten acres of beets on high land, however, that he expects will run ten tons to the acre.

Because the season was late and farmers were anxious to get their seedling done, they sowed their small grain on high land and reserved their low-land for sugar beets. While in a season of average rainfall this would have been the wise thing to do, it caused a light crop of beets this season. The only redeeming feature about the loss of the beet crop on lowlands is that no other crop could have done any better than the beets did.

Mr. Behling planted three acres of cabbage last spring but owing to excessive rainfall only one acre remains as proof of his intentions and work.

RURAL CARRIERS FINISH FEDERAL CROP SURVEY

A farm acreage survey has been completed by rural carriers along their routes. Reports were made by farmers on the acreage of the various crops raised on their farms, and the statistics were forwarded to the United States department of agriculture. Reports were made on about a dozen average farms on each route. From the totals, the department of agriculture will estimate the acreage and size of crops harvested. An exhaustive report will be published later to show the farmer where there was an over-supply and where a shortage.

To the Home Builders Who Want TRUE HEAT INSULATION
THE comfort of a heat insulated house is a real, lasting, all year benefit. In summer, true heat insulation keeps rooms cool, even those right under the roof. In spring and fall it stops sudden temperature changes, keeps rooms cozy.
And in winter it helps out the heating plant, makes rooms warm in the morning, keeps floors warm, prevents drafts and a hundred other heating ills. It saves coal, so much that to quote figures startles and amazes people who are used to the old type of house.
What is True Heat Insulation?
Every home builder wants true heat insulation. But many do not get it, for they do not know what to ask for.
When you consider heat insulation see that your specification covers material, form and thickness. These are vital questions. Flax-li-num is made to answer all of them.
1—Flax-li-num is a pure flax fibre material, noted for its great resistance to heat and cold. The toughest, most durable fibre in existence. Outlasts any building.
Flax-li-num Can't Warp, Buckle, Tear or Puncture
2—Flax-li-num is made in the form that has been found the most practical in actual use. Neither too rigid nor too flimsy, but a flexible board material. Can easily be forced in between the studding. Stays in place—can't tear, buckle or warp.
Thick as Samples Experts Test
3—Flax-li-num is made one inch thick for roofs, one-half inch thick for walls. These thicknesses insure maximum efficiency in stopping heat and cold. Thinner insulation is bound to fail in its purpose.
A Certificate of worth is given to every builder of Flax-li-num insulated houses. Ask to see this Certificate before you buy. It is your protection, as well as that of the careful builder.

SCHNEIDER, KASPER WIN CHEESE MEDALS

Outagamie-co Cheesemakers
Win Two International Prizes
At Milwaukee

F. H. Kasper, Bear Creek, world's champion cheesemaker, won another gold medal Monday when his exhibit of American cheese at the National dairy show in Milwaukee was given first prize. Mr. Kasper has won a score of years and has so many prizes that he can't keep track of them all. He is the undisputed champion cheese maker of the world.

Outagamie-co cheese was given further recognition when Oswald Schneider, Appleton, was awarded first prize on his exhibits of Swiss cheese. Schneider has been a prize winner with his cheese at numerous exhibitions.

The Limburger cheese gold medal was awarded to John Schonenberg of Manitowish. Badger cheese makers won all the cheese prizes against competition open to all the world.

Last week was one of the busiest weeks of the season in the city building inspector's office. George E. Pe. after issued 29 permits for a total of $61,650 in construction, as compared with 14 permits for $18,930 in construction during the same week last year. Although the number of new residences and garages is below that of last year, the value of construction in all classes is more than $400,000 in excess of last year and is now approaching the $2,000,000 mark. Last week seven permits for residences, 19 for garages and two for business buildings were granted.

TRUCK, ON RAMPAGE, DAMAGES TWO CARS

Two Chevrolet touring cars were damaged by a Western Elevator company truck driven by Charles Braemer, 773 Bates-st. In a collision on Appleton-st. near the Rogge grocery company store Saturday afternoon. The truck was proceeding north as it collided with a car driven by A. Kellner, 1081 Oklahoma-ave, and then ran into another car parked on the east side of the street and owned by William Hietpas, 457 Appleton-st. Bumper, headlight and fender of the Kellner car and a fender of the Hietpas vehicle were damaged.

Spring Here Again

The family of J. W. Doyle, 1026 Third-st, profited by the absentmindedness of the weather man who divested the Doyle garden of all appearance of autumn by allowing the raspberry bushes to bear for the second time this year. There were enough large, luscious berries to fill a quart, and they were the largest of any picked this year. The bushes are entirely covered with blossoms.

Harry Thinks He Has Found "Meanest Man"

Psychiatrists may produce some interesting definitions of the proverbial "meanest man on earth," but Harry A. Shannon, clerk of courts, has his own ideas on the subject. After rowing his boat from Potato Point down stream about two miles, he parked his boat on the south bank of the Fox river with the intention of picking berries. When he came back, he found that some one had rowed it back to the other side and left it there, leaving the berry picker to walk back around the other side.

BRENNER AGAIN IS CALLED TO FREEDOM

The Rev. Theodore Brenner, pastor of Immanuel Lutheran church, Maple Creek, was extended a second call by the congregation of St. Peter church, town of Freedom, at a meeting Sunday.

At a meeting a week ago at Maple Creek the Rev. Mr. Brenner was asked to remain and consented to do so. The offer now made by the Freedom church provides for a shorter term of parochial school, which would lessen his duties.

It is expected that he will submit this call to his congregation next Sunday. The place at Freedom is made vacant by the retirement of the Rev. G. A. Dettmann, who was pastor of the church for many years.

BUILDING PERMITS

The advent of the fall season has resulted in an increase in building activities. Most of the applications for permits these days are for garages. Monday nine permits were issued for construction estimated at $8,473. They are as follows:

Martin Spay, 875 Seymour-st. garage.
Ben Burmeister 575 Brewster-st. two garages.
John M. Luaders, 391 Fair-st. garage.
Ernest Hoffman, 1065 Superior-st. residence.
Charles Reinke, 1080 Packard-st. garage.
Fraser Lumber company, 610 Commercial-st., to rebuild residence and erect garage.
Charlotte Keats 815 Bateman-st. addition to residence.
Carl J. Waterman, 475 Eldorado-st. garage.

CHAPTER I
Game But Nervous

Dad Morgan stood with his shoulders against the top rail of the corral fence, apparently asleep on his feet. The sun had a persuasive warmth, which was good for kinks in the system. He never could decide whether it melted or baked the things out of him; but he knew it for an emollient of power and virtue. His figure dropped somnolently. His pipe hung loosely from a corner of his mouth. His eyes were half-closed.

But Dad Morgan was not asleep, nor were his half-closed eyes idle. They were watching two riders descend the slope on the far side of the wide coules in which the ranch buildings sprawled. There was a plebeian horse ridden by a girl and a sorrel ridden by a man. They were still somewhat distant for disclosure of these details, but Dad Morgan knew who was coming. The pace of the riders was a walk, and Dad understood the meaning of it. "I expect he's got himself all chafed up," he mused. "But hell put it on his nerves; see if he don't. Nothing ever happens to him regular and natural, except maybe swearing."

The riders were upon a green level, and the plebeian horse broke into an easy lope. The sorrel followed, then checked and settled down to a restless walk. The girl in front turned in her saddle, glanced backward, brought her mount to a stop and waited. When the sorrel had come abreast the two horses walked again in the direction of the ranch. Dad Morgan grinned, shifted his position against the fence and began filling his pipe.

He was smoking lazily when the riders came to a pause at the corral gate. The girl swung off with an easy sweep and waved a quiantulated hand.

"Hello, Dad."

"Howdy, Sally? Howdy, Wreck?"

The man on the sorrel made no answer, for he was engaged in a task. With both hands gripping the pommel, he raised himself in the stirrups, lightened his lips, and scowled. Then, very slowly, he fetched his right leg across the sorrel's back. As he did this he tilted himself forward until the pommel burrowed into the pit of his stomach, and his arms gripped the sorrel's neck in a tense embrace. Then he slid crabwise to the ground. He stood there for several seconds, looking at his legs, which had retained the posture necessary to enclose the barrel of a horse. Slowly he straightened them, one after the other. There was a groan in his look, but he did not let it speak.

He turned a savage and challenging eye in the direction of Dad Morgan.

"I'm fine," he said.

"You're lookin' real well," observed Dad. "Had an idea you might of got lamed up some, but I can say as I see any signs of it."

The rider of the sorrel stumped stuffily forward half a dozen steps.

"Who-me? Lame? What would I get lame for?"

"Come to think of it, Wreck, I'm durned if I know. I reckon anybody who can set on a driver for fifteen hundred miles, maybe sixteen hundred, is kind of acclimated. Anyhow, the sheriff says—"

Dad Morgan broke off at a slight but peremptory gesture from the girl, who had opened the corral gate and was accelerating the plebeian horse through it with a gentle flick of her quirt.

She was a free, loose-limbed girl, brown in the cheeks and neck, clear and serene of eye—a girl of the open spaces and the rolling range. The wide calm of the big country somehow found its expression in Sally Morgan. But the look that went with the gesture, while it never broke the calm, checked Dad as guest, as though it had been an order from Ma herself.

The rider of the sorrel watched his mount follow the plebeian into the corral, then straightened his shoulders, set his teeth and stepped off briskly in the direction of the house. He stumbled once, pulled himself together with a wince and hastened his step. Dad watched him until his figure disappeared through the door.

"Now, I wonder in which nerves Sally stopped him again. 'Let him alone, Dad. He's game, anyhow.'"

"I ain't sayin' anything he can hear, Sally. I'm just wonderin' which nerves is responsible. We ain't allowed to lay it on the sorrel, or on the saddle, or on any of the fallin' of human flesh. It's got to be nerves or nothin'."

"Well, don't plague him about it. If he wants to blame it on his nerves, why should we care? And I don't think he likes to have you call him 'Wreck.'"

Dad viewed his daughter with a glance of surprise.

"He ain't ever said so," he remarked.

"And would you expect him to? He's a guest."

"He's payin' eight dollars a week to Ma. I ain't saying we asked him for it. Ma didn't want to take nothin'. But when a man's payin' he's got the rights of free and unlimited speech. And if he don't like—"

"He's a guest, just the same," repeated Sally. "And as long as he stays here we're under an obligation to treat him right."

"I'm treatin' him all right, ain't I? There ain't a finer thing about life in these wild and irreverent parts. I haven't told him, any time he asked me. Why, all I been doin' the past two weeks is casin' education into him."

Sally smiled.

"And I've picked up considerable about nerves, which sort of makes an even split," added Dad. "He don't mind my callin' him 'Wreck.' If he was goin' to squeal about it, why would he lay claim to bein' such? You heard him say it. I'm a nervous wreck," he says, sort of proud."

"Oh, well, don't rub it in, Dad."

"Ain't rubbin' it in. Ain't goin' to," Dad looked up suddenly. "Did you say something about his bein' game?"

Sally smiled again and her glance wandered to the crest of the grassy slope and seemed to go beyond it.

"It was awfully funny," she said. "But I was scared for a minute. We rode over as far as the second ridge; I wanted him to see a real piece of range country. He wouldn't admit he'd never been on a horse before. But he did pretty well, although the sorrel was getting nervous from the way his mouth was pulled."

"It's catchin', maybe."

"Perhaps. At any rate, we were standing there, right close to the edge, when a bee lit—on the sorrel. You know what happened. The way he went over that horse head you'd have thought he'd learned to fly. It carried him over the edge, too, and he went down about twenty feet before he grabbed hold of a bush and stopped himself. I thought he was going all the way."

"I expect you roped him?" observed Dad.

"He wouldn't let me. He got mad as fury when he saw I was going to. He said he guessed he could climb back without any help, and he did. And he wouldn't let me catch the sorrel either. It must have taken him twenty minutes at least. And then it took him another five minutes to get on. I can't describe exactly the way he did it. It was like shinning up. Of course, he was pretty well scratched and mused, and his temper was in a frightful state."

"Any language?" asked Dad.

"No; he was too busy. I think coming home he nearly fell off twice, trying to ease himself in the saddle. But he never squealed. And he says he's going out ridin' tomorrow mornin'. He won't make it, though; he'll be too lame to move."

Dad nodded with understanding. Any dude would be too lame to move under equal circumstances. Yet he was not entirely certain that the Wreck would fall to move, even though too lame; for he had a way of playing the game according to his own rules.

"I'll put on the house dress, I believe," said Sally.

"Sure," agreed Dad. "Bob's here."

She paused for an instant, a look of surprise in her eyes.

"When did he come? I didn't expect him until tomorrow mornin'."

"He came a while back. He ain't goin' to be able to with you tomorrow, as near as I can make out."

Sally frowned involuntarily, then shrugged and continued her march toward the house. Dad settled back against the fence and resumed his musing. Sally would be mighty disappointed if she did not get to the train tomorrow; she was all packed and expectant. But he knew that she was not much of a hand at complaining. Still, it seemed, even to Dad, that it was too bad to postpone everything at the last minute. He would not mind riding over with her himself, but it was too long a trail for people with twinges and kinks. Sometimes he wished the ranch was a little mile nearer the railroad. But Sally never even complained about that.

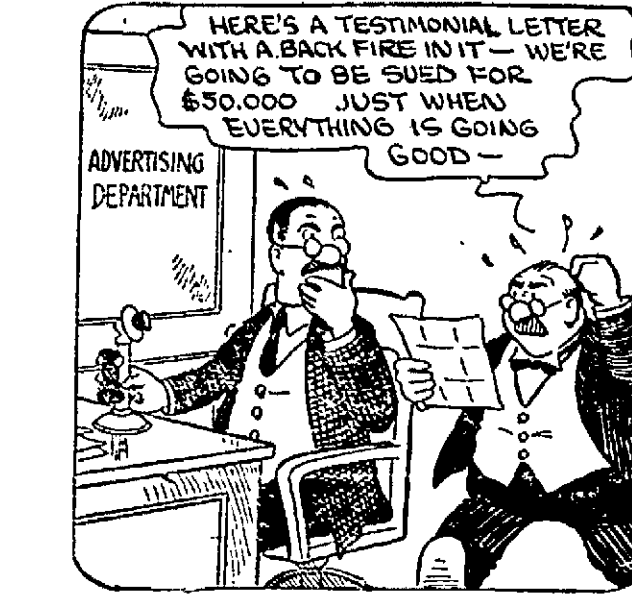

There had been no railroad at all when Dad Morgan came into the range country; at least, none within a couple of hundred miles or more. Now there was a main line north of them, only about thirty-five miles on a good trail. It seemed very near to Dad when it first came, but when Sally began going to school in the East, and there were seasonal goings and comings, with the necessity of maintaining communications between city and ranch, Dad realized that it was not very close, after all. So far as he and Ma were concerned, that made no difference. But Sally had grown up, and she had an education, and she knew the ways of places far beyond the range, and—well, Dad understood. Still, even Sally was quite satisfied with the range country, provided she was not quarantined there.

It was not a very large ranch that Dad Morgan surveyed through half-shut eyes, nor was it a busy one. The air of idleness was everywhere about it; idleness, but not decay. It was simply a ranch taking a long and honorable rest. The busy years were behind it.

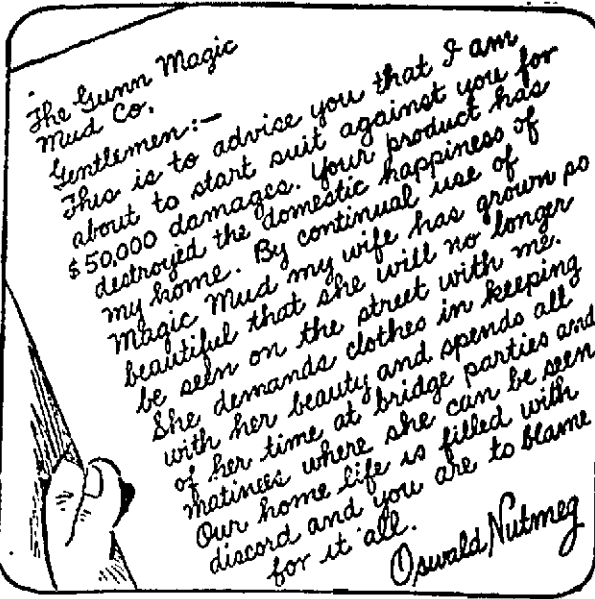

"I ain't got any kick," mused Dad. "I got mine; enough, anyhow. Let the rest of 'em hustle. They haven't come into their rheumatism yet. Only I'm sure sorry that Sally's goin' to miss the train."

Bridge Gap
Twixt Work,
Home Regime

New York.—Get ready for matrimony while you wait for it, but don't wait too long.

This is the advice of Mrs. Marion T. Brockway, housemother of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, with the social, educational and recreational activities of 5000 women employees in her charge.

Because of this viewpoint she has made it possible for all the girls of the company to have daily lessons in millinery and dressmaking while they pursue their regular jobs of stenography, filing, or whatever they are hired to do. Now she is going to institute lessons in cooking.

"The girls who are in the offices and factories today are the wives and mothers of tomorrow," she says, "and they should be preparing for that as well as learning to support themselves now."

"There should not be such a wide gap between the business world and the home. Girls should not be completely divorced from the mechanics of home life while they are in business."

Last year 3,578 girls, at her instigation, learned to make their own hats. This represented more than half the number employed. She employed expert teachers and outlined a thorough course. She even learned to cover frames herself.

"The hats that cost 10 or 15 dollars in the shops, she went on, "it is most unusual to put more than five dollars' worth of material in a hat."

"The girls learned to utilize their ribbons and silks that had served other purposes, thus cutting their bills and improving their appearances at the same time. And besides this they had the joy of creating something themselves. In the dressmaking classes they turned out gowns that would have been a credit to Fifth Avenue shops."

And cooking, of course, is just as important as making your own clothes.

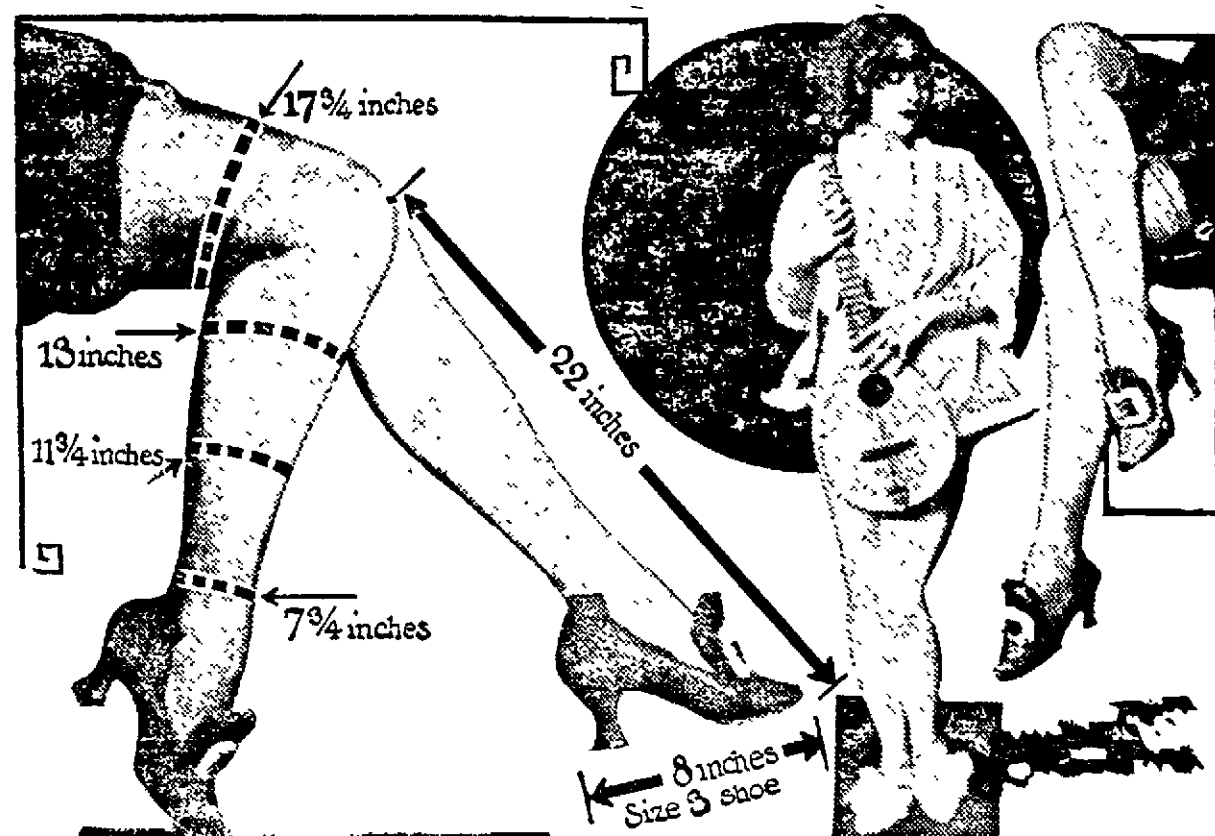

"Every girl, no matter what her station, should know how to cook simple things and know the elementary principles of food values. She can live more economically and have better health."

"The working girl should not be obliged to spend all her salary merely to eat and to clothe herself, and she need not do so if she learns to manage well."

Mrs. Brockway believes that the girl in business who knows home-making as well will have more opportunities for marriage than the girl who can only typewrite.

"And a home of her own is much more to be desired by any woman than a private office with her name on the door," she concluded.

Dancing Is Most Valuable
Exercise To Attain Grace

COMPARE THE MEASUREMENTS OF YOUR OWN LEGS WITH THOSE OF GILDA GRAY, SHOWN HERE. THEN TRY TO DEVELOP THEM WITH THESE AS MODELS. GILDA GRAY, HERSELF, AT RIGHT AND ANOTHER VIEW OF HER LEGS.

You needn't hide your legs behind long skirts, especially since the short skirt is coming back.

Even though you feel they are nothing to be proud of, there's a way of making them the cynosure of masculine—and even feminine—eyes.

Gilda Gray, famous Follies beauty and owner of what are considered the most shapely legs in the United States, tells how you can develop your own legs just as she has hers.

From a little Polish immigrant girl, Gilda Gray has danced her way to fame and fortune as a Ziegfeld beauty. The secret of her success lies in the following article, which she has written especially for your guidance.

BY GILDA GRAY
Dancing is, in my opinion, the best way to develop one's legs.

There are many reasons for this, not the least of which is the spirit in which you lose yourself when under the influence of musical rhythm. You sway on and on and on in a delicious languor during which the muscles are brought into play almost without thought.

Dancing exercises all the leg muscles and in such a way that perfect co-ordination is obtained. This is due, perhaps to the fact that music is stressed, has a definite beat, and all dance movements are necessarily graceful.

Then, too, there is the wish to be graceful and beautiful while dancing. This helps immeasurably.

This may seem foolish, perhaps, to the one-two-three school of physical culturists. Dancing, they say, is play while, to be beautiful, one must devote time and earnest thought to the training process.

That makes my point exactly. No routine exercise can possibly be as strenuous as continued dancing. The difference lies, however, in the fact that dancing is play—lovely, beautiful, graceful movements, in time to lovely, beautiful graceful music.

There are some simple exercises, however, which are of great help. One, which has proven most valuable to me, is to stand still, heels together, then to rise slowly on the toes. Another is to squat, hands on hips, rising slowly repeating the movement again and again.

As far as that goes, practically all exercises are helpful. But dancing, to my mind, is the most valuable of all.

Adventures
Of The Twins

THE MAGIC SAND AND THE STUMP

"Now, what'll we do?" said the Sand Man dully as he and the Twins left the house of the Sour Old Woman Who Lived Under the Water-Fall.

"Why?" asked Nick. "What do you mean, Mister Sand Man?"

"I mean that the magician, Eena Meena, bewitched the magic sand just now," said the Sand Man. "He cast a spell over it. Didn't you hear him? He turned it from sleepy sand into wide-awake sand. What the babies will do now I don't know."

Suddenly Nancy began to laugh. "Why, Mister Sand Man," she said, "I've forgot to tell you that when Nick and I came back after putting the babies to sleep for their afternoon naps, we peeped inside the Sour Old Woman's house and saw Eena Meena there. We knew he would do some mischief if he saw the sleepy sand so we emptied it out into an old stump and put common sand in its place."

"What?" cried the Sand Man happily. "Do you mean to say that I have only common sand in my sack?"

"Yes," declared Nick. "The sleepy sand is as safe as ever."

"That's just fine," said the Sand Man. "You Twins have saved everything. Where is the real magic sand. I must get it right away."

The Twins led the way from the water-fall toward a large stump that stood nearby.

"Here it is," said Nancy, running ahead. "We dumped it all into the hollow place in the middle and—"

But suddenly she stopped talking and she looked very queer.

"What's wrong? What's the matter?" called the Sand Man.

"The magic sand's gone," said poor Nancy. "We left it right here in this stump and now it's all gone. Somebody has stolen it again."

"Here's a note," said Nick, walking around the stump to see if he could find any trace of the robbers.

"Read it," said the Sand Man dully.

So Nick opened the note and read: "Dear Folks:

"I was watching all the time and I saw you dump the magic sleepy sand into the stump."

"I have taken it away to Squeek Land, where it will be safe."

"Hastily yours," "Tweekanoose."

"My land of Goshen," cried the Sour Sand Man. "What shall we do now? The sun is getting low and there is nobody to put the babies to sleep!"

"We'll have to go to Squeek Land," said Nick.

"But we can't," said the Sand Man. "Tweekanoose says—"

"It doesn't matter what he says," declared Nick bravely. "We can go anywhere on the earth or in Fairyland in our magic shoes. He is only trying to scare us. We'll go back and ask the Green Wizard."

"A very good idea, indeed," said the Sand Man.

So he emptied the common sand out of his sack and put the empty sack into his pocket.

Then they all went back to the tree where the Green Wizard lived.

"We want to follow Tweekanoose the Gnome to Squeek Land," said Nick. "How do you get there?"

"Just a minute," said the wizard, "until I look in my gazing ball."

So Nancy and Nick and the Sand Man waited.

An Actress Who Fought
For Suffrage Long Ago

MRS. JULIA REINHARDT, AS SHE LOOKED A FEW WEEKS AGO.

New York.—Death stands just outside the door of the dingy little room where Julia Reinhardt, shrunken and enfeebled, lies waiting.

"I am so tired, so tired," murmurs the woman who staunchly joined with Henry Ward Beecher in 1838 in the fight for woman suffrage.

Fame and friends have deserted her. Her passing might have been like that of the other thousands who go their way, unsung, unhonored in the New York that once acclaimed them.

But a newspaper reporter found Mrs. Reinhardt. He wrote the story of her tragedy.

Now, ironically enough, a new fame comes to this woman who is little more than a living corpse.

Press agents would bring their clients to her bedside to have photographs made. These photographs would go before the world with some such caption as "Youth and Age," or "Suse Snooks Visits Dying Suffrage Pioneer."

Once Julia Reinhardt stood behind the footlights while Leaters rocked with shouts and huzzas for her. And within her was an answering tumult, a quickened pulse.

She played with the great David

Warfield in Belasco's "The Auctioneer." And she acted in "The Grand Army Man," "Is Matrimony a Failure?" and "Her Honor, the Mayor."

Now the little room where she lives on 37th street rocks with the crash of noise from the skyscraper going up across the street. Riveters rend the air with their tattoos. Motors squawk. Whistles blow.

Night comes, but not quiet. As the giant tick-tack of the rivets dies down, the crash of a jazz band a door away makes the night hideous. There is no rest.

It little matters now to Julia Reinhardt what comes to pass in her few remaining days.

Occasionally she half opens her eyes. She recognizes that the man before her is a reporter.

"I knew Warfield, Belasco, Rose Coghlan, Barrymore. I was with Jane Cowl. I knew them all," she mumbles, seeming to gather her strength for one last defense of what she has accomplished.

"I spoke for suffrage fought for it, suffered for it. Inez Millholland and I danced together at the suffrage ball as the youngest and oldest suffragists."

"They're building a memorial to Inez now, and I'm starving to death."

Develop Your Personality,
Says Boston

BY EVANGELINE WEED
Director of Personality Institute, Boston

What is personality? The outer aspect of an individual.

It can be developed just as easily as one develops his physical life. A woman develops her beauty, a man develops his physical prowess—why not develop the personality?

What are the basic principles of personality? Mental attitude and physical attitude. The mental attitude embraces one's intelligence and one's knowledge; the physical has to do with the manner, gestures and appearance.

Is personality, acquired through formula apt to be insincere? Not any more than acquired knowledge is apt to be inaccurate. Personality may be described as the "show-window" of your character. If your character is good the display reflects it as such.

What are the chief benefits of developed personality? Self-confidence, poise, charm. Material benefits cannot be measured. There is no question that lack of good personality handicaps one, while the possession of it can make one great.

If you desire personality the desire itself is evidence that you possess it. Perhaps you lack the secret of displaying it. That secret you can learn.

or the next thing to it. If the actors hadn't sent this purse I would have gone to the island."

And so the unselfish who have heard of Julia Reinhardt's plight come to see her. The press agent. And a woman who says she'll send a chicken. And a woman who brings her own poems in which the dying woman may find comfort.

And outside the world passes. The riveters beat their tattoo. The jazz band wails on, one great.

But soon there will be rest and quiet for Julia Reinhardt.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO RUTH ELLINGTON

DEAR RUTH:

I'm awfully glad you like my purchases. I thoroughly enjoyed selecting them, and I'm convinced enough to believe that I might make a very good business woman in time.

Do you know, I'm very happy to think that we started this shop, my dear. I didn't know that economic independence could be not only such a comfort but such a source of satisfaction to a woman. When I come home I want to talk to you about enlarging the shop. You know I have six thousand dollars in perfectly good money. If you think it would do us any good to spend it, I would be very glad to do so. When I think of what we have done on three thousand dollars, I feel that we are not only great business women, but great financiers.

What I wanted to do, dear, in this letter, was not to pat either you or myself on the back, but to tell you that I have had another talk with Karl. I rather suspect that Alice is aware of the fact that I went to luncheon with him yesterday. He came to me in the morning just after breakfast and asked me if I would do this. At first I did not see how I could do it, but Karl has always been so good to me, and he seemed so cast down, that I finally decided to get the matter over with and let him unburden his soul if he wanted to.

As luck would have it, that was the day that Alice had made up her mind to motor out to Arrowhead for luncheon. She told us about it during the morning as though I were a forgone conclusion that we all would do just exactly as she had planned, and she was utterly surprised when I told her that I had some shopping for you to do while she would probably take most of the day, and I expected to take a more or less hurried lunch down town.

Mother, who was looking rather one up said that she intended to rest all day; and she explained the

Lawrence Will Raise Curtain On Grid With St. Norberts As Rival

Blues Regulars Are In Fine
Shape For Initial Battle Here
Saturday Afternoon and Expect Victory.

Lawrence Saturday afternoon will raise the curtain on the gridiron season when St. Norberts college squad invades Appleton for the first clash on Lawrence field. The gridders have been working hard for several weeks under the direction of Mark Catlin and Harry Sylvester, and are in better shape for the opener than they have been for several years. Catlin had more than two full squads with which to work, and all of the men have been given a chance to try out with the regulars, so that there is no lack of substitutes in case they are needed.

The only difficulty was in getting ends and backs. Catlin wants men who are both large and fast for these positions and has been shifting his charges about constantly to find the proper men. Six men offered him a choice for ends, with Captain Stoll probably the only one who has that position clinched. Boettcher has been shifted from the backfield to end and probably will start there in the opener. He weighs more than 200 pounds and is a good man at receiving passes being fast as well as surefooted. Dugan is another candidate for end, but he has also been working out at tackle and may fill that post, while Cooke also is available.

KOTAL SHIFTED
Kotal has been shifted to half-back, where he is playing an even better game than he did at quarter last season. Jake Zussman and Nason are competing for the position of quarterback. Zussman, being older and more experienced, probably will start in the St. Norberts contest, but Nason may get his chance later. Jake is known for his clever headwork and grit, but his lack of beef is a slight handicap.

Pete Briesse has been working as Eddie Kotal's mate at halfback, and Catlin is trying to find a fast man to work with them. Stalt, Heldeman, Nobles and Fein all have a chance to fill the post, but the final choice will not be made until playing time. Gander and Olsson, a couple of veterans, are available for center where they have been alternating since the opening of drill. Kiessling, Stark, Holdridge and Packard, also husky regulars of last season, furnish a couple of sets of efficient tackles, with Counsel, Sam Smith, Schini and Remington on the job as guards.

CAPITAL PLANS TO WELCOME SENATORS

President Coolidge Will Open
Ceremonies With Address
To Players

Washington, D. C.—Politics all but forgotten. Washington, official and unofficial. Tuesday completed plans for welcoming home its victorious pennant winning American league baseball team.

While the club was in Boston to play its final game of the league season, all activities here were directed toward giving the players a rousing reception upon their arrival at union station, scheduled for Wednesday. President Coolidge will lead in that reception with an address of welcome after the team has been escorted up Pennsylvania-ave to the elipse just south of the White House in a parade which bids fair to exceed in enthusiasm any in many years that has marched along the famous avenue. All that can be done to evidence the pride the capital city feels in its champions will be done.

At the White House business was interrupted to send a telegram of congratulations to Manager Harris while Mrs. Coolidge eagerly told the news to the president. Monday night government officials joined with humble citizens in praise of the team and its fighting qualities. Cabinet officers, justices of the supreme court and other officials expressing their admiration in unstinted terms, all agreeing with Justice McKenna of the supreme court, who said "the good news gives me a distinct thrill. I am delighted and I am sure that all of Washington feels likewise."

Chicago Squad Home For Seven Grid Tilts

Chicago—Yale, Harvard and Princeton, have long been known for their apparent unwillingness to play anything but "at home" football games. They must play hosts to teams outside of the "Big Three" or they don't want to perform at all. In other words, the Bulldog, Crimson and Tiger don't care a rap about traveling. In the middle west this season, there is a team which will emulate the elite division in the "own backyard" respect. It is Chicago. The Maroons will stage eight games this fall. All but one of them will be waged on Stagg field. Ohio State

FOX RIVER TEAM ENDS SEASON BY 7 TO 2 VICTORY

Twin City Lakesiders Outclassed By Appleton Industrials
In Final Tilt

Fox River Paper Co. Firsts Sunday wound up the season with a 7 to 2 win from the Lakesiders of Menasha-Neeenah, which was featured by a triple killing and a sparkling play in right field, where one of the Fox Rivermen stopped a grounder and heaved it to first in time to retire the runner.

Peck of Lakeside scored in the first when he hit safely, stole second and reached third on an infield play, scoring a minute later on a wild peg. He also was responsible for the Lakesiders' second run in the fourth, crossing the rubber on his hit, a steal and a single by Johnson.

The Fox Rivermen got an easy start when two of their men were issued walking papers, but a triple killing stopped them from scoring. The Lakeside shortstop starred in this feature when he speared a liner, touched second and pegged to first for a triple out.

In the fourth, Bates singled and scored from first on Beyer's two-bagger, but the fifth was the inning which spelled disaster for the Lakesiders. Eleven Papermen had a swing at the apple in this stanza and five of them scattered across the rubber. In the sixth they added another run to their tally off Schultz's single, steal and Bates two-bagger.

Crowe had the Twin City boys talking to themselves when they were unable to connect with his offerings. He sent seven of them down by the strike-out route, walked one and allowed four hits, while his mates were taking six walks and collecting 12 hits off Madsen, who struck out six.

COLD WEATHER SCRAPPERS

As the season advances and waters become cooler the bait tosser will be unusually surprised at the "pep" displayed by our old friend and tireless feeder, the pickerel. Now some of the old timers will scatter the chips on the table when it comes to talking "picks" and usually will burst forth with a remark such as, "who wants to catch those snakes?" etc. But to give the "pick" his due, he is certainly a generous old fellow, willing to climb on the stringer almost any time during the season with the exception of the months of July and August when he is somewhat lazy and in a sort of coma because of sore teeth and gums. But let me hand you the bacon on a plate that the pickerel will put up a nice little scrappie especially if the proper kind of tackle is used and this little fall scrapper given a chance to do his stunt.

It is in late fall that the pickerel is on the still hunt for food and like the other fine likes to pack on a little extra fat for the winter, and after the ice has covered the lake you'll generally find this fall scrapper willing to take it as cold as it can be served. Pickerel taken from around the springs and through the ice are peppery enough to put up a nice little battle and the trophy that has nicknamed him snake, etc., will find that he isn't so easily landed if hooked within an area such as the above named.

It's along the lilies that he generally hangs out and it doesn't make any difference whether it's a frog, chub or an artificial, he will take it greedily.

Classic Plays On Gridiron

"Chic" Harley's Great Run and Kick Started Ohio State's Campaign for New Stadium

By DR. J. W. WILGE
Ohio State University Coach

IGHTY thousand people had wedged into the mammoth concrete horseshoe. From "cork" to "cork" it pulsed with humanity. Bands played. Flags and pennants waved. Machine guns barked in salute. A football appeared. The teams lined up. A whistle. The kickoff. And the Ohio Stadium was dedicated. There you have a snapshot picture of one never-to-be-forgotten October afternoon in 1922.

Now let's turn to another October afternoon in 1916. The scene is Illinois Field, a morass of mud. Two minutes of a bitter struggle remain. Illinois clings to a six-point lead, the result of two accurate kicks. But Ohio, the as-yet unsung babe of the Western Conference, was carried Ohio from its 20-yard line to midfield and a succession of short tosses, in which the martyred aviator Fred Norton, figured prominently, had fourth down with three yards to go on Illinois' 13 yard line. Then came a great play.

Again it was Harley back, with the option of passing or running. Illinois' right end charged in a few steps, then dropped back. In that instant Harley decided what to do. He faked to pass, then ran to the left. Two teammates going to the left as possible pass receivers blocked the defensive end and right halfback. Harley outran the fullback, straight-armed the defensive right end, who had been only partly blocked, straight armed the safety man and dove for a touchdown in the extreme left corner of the field. The winning point hinged on the success of the free kick, from a difficult angle to the left of the goal posts. Harley was not through thinking. He called time, asked for a clean right shoe to replace the mud-heavy one he had on then made the goal—and game.

That play, though no one knew it at the time, was the genesis of the movement for the Ohio Stadium, a movement that gained impetus and finally crystallized into an active campaign and the great moment pictured in the first lines of this story as Harley repeated with variations his exploits of his first Western Conference game, Ohio continued to win games and public enthusiasm ran high.

So you see the far-reaching effects a thrilling play, particularly several seasons of them, may have.

Cagers Get Early Start At Kimberly

Kimberly is planning to put the strongest basketball team in its history into the field this year and to that end has secured Jake Zussman to coach the team, which retains its old name, the Kimberly Independents. Zussman has had many years' experience in basketball both at Appleton high school and Lawrence college, and last season coached several amateur teams. The Kimberly team worked well last year but lacked efficient coaching. It is strictly an amateur outfit and has been organized for several years. The men average from 145 to 150 pounds. The expenses which will be incurred will be covered in part by the proceeds of a card party arranged for the Kimberly clubhouse Tuesday evening, Sept. 26, and a special ballroom dance at the same place on Oct. 7.

Packard Is High Gun At Trial Shoot

George Packard Saturday was high gun at the practice shoot instituted by the Appleton Angling and Shooting club with a score of 76 out of a possible 100. C. W. Stribley's average was better than Packard's, for he cracked 65 out of 75 targets, and E. H. Wright's 59 out of a possible 75 also showed good shooting. These three nimrods were the only veterans in the shoot, all the rest having been laying off for a year or more. Most of the men who appeared at the shoot were trying the traps for the first time, and taking that into consideration their work was excellent.

Grapes are ripe! Don't let them waste! Make your own supply of grape juice. Most housewives do not seem to realize that grape juice may be made in the home as easily as grape jelly and that it is an extremely wholesome product.

Dugan Is Entitled To Premier Honor Of Loop

This is the seventh article of a series by Billy Evans, nationally famous umpire, comparing individual values of players who may compete in the world series. In this article Evans discusses the third basemen.

DUGAN, NEW YORK—Bats and throws right handed. Outstanding figures at third last season, who has not quite played up to form. Injuries have handicapped his work. Has done his best during the closing stages. Remarkable fielder and dangerous batter.

BLUEGE, WASHINGTON—Bats and throws right handed. Great defensive ball player who makes the hard chances look easy. Rated just the average hitter, but is dangerous in a pinch and gets distance to his drives when he meets the ball. Will be a star with more experience.

GROH, NEW YORK—Bats and throws right handed. Veteran star, brilliant player, who is beginning to show the wear and tear of years of service. Rises to greatest heights in the crisis. Played remarkable ball in the world series last fall, although not physically fit to give his best.

RATING—Dugan is entitled to the premier honors in the American League. Dugan gets the decision over his competitors.

JIM JEFFRIES TAKES ROLE OF BLACKSMITH

Los Angeles—James J. Jeffries, former world's heavyweight champion, has followed the example of his hard hitting successor, Jack Dempsey, and gone into the movies. He is enacting the role of blacksmith in a film comedy nearing completion here, it was learned Monday.

PIRATES FINISH SEASON WITH WIN

Chicago—Pittsburgh closed the National league season in Chicago Monday by defeating the Cubs, 5 to 4, in a loosely played game. Emil Tede, star left hander of the Pirates, registered his sixteenth victory for the season, although he did not go the full route. The visitors won the game by hitting opportunely behind errors of the substitute team which Manager Killifer sent against the Kechnes' regulars. The game was played in an hour and 16 minutes.

CURTAIN RUNG DOWN AT BOYLE'S THIRTY ACRES

New York—The curtain on the outdoor boxing season will officially be rung down Wednesday night at Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City. Harry Erble, who was third man in the ring when Jack Dempsey knocked out Georges Carpentier, is the matchmaker for the new club. He has arranged three tens and two eights.

Here's the card: Paul Berlenbach vs. Johnny Gill, ten rounds; Sid Terrell vs. Tommy Gerard, ten rounds; Jack Britton vs. K. O. Kaplan, ten rounds; Petie Mavk vs. Billy Kennedy, eight rounds, and Johnny Masley vs. Sailor Morse, eight rounds.

Washington Senators Defeat Red Sox, 4-2, To Capture Pennant

New York Yankees Were Idle
And Have Lost Final Chance To Break Into Tie For First Place.

Boston—Washington won its first American league pennant by defeating the Red Sox here on Monday, 4 to 2, and earned the right to meet the New York Giants in the world's series, which is to open in Washington on Saturday. When the last Boston player was out in the ninth inning and the victory of the Senators was assured, a crowd of ten thousand Boston fans cheered the visiting team as it came from the field. Clark Griffith, the veteran owner; Stanley Harris, the "boy manager"; and Walter Johnson, famous pitching ace, who will take part in his first world's series after eighteen years in the big leagues, were applauded in turn.

MARBERRY, THE HERO
Fred Marberry, relief pitcher of the Senators, who held Boston batters for the last six innings Monday, will be named the hero of this deciding game. He has acted as relief pitcher in all three games played here in this series and has worked in 50 games for Washington this season. Left-hander John Zachary was none too effective in the first three innings, but Marberry stopped the Red Sox. Washington made its bid early for the victory that would give it the pennant regardless of what the New York Yankees could do in their double header against Philadelphia tomorrow. Off Curtis Fullerton, in the first with two out, Rice singled through short, stole second and went all the way home when O'Neill's wild throw caromed off Lee's glove. In the second the Senators made two runs. Peck singled and scored on singles by Ruel and Zachary. Ruel scored from third on Liebold's single to right. These three runs off Fullerton were enough as the Senators won. In the eighth inning, Stanley Harris doubled against the left field fence and went home on a clean single by Rice.

SOX HAD CHANCES
Boston had all its chances early in the game. Singles by Williams and Wamby let the former home in the first. Veach scored in the third. He singled, Boone was hit and Joe Harris bunted. Ewell's harsh grounder off Zachary's glove let Veach score. Throughout the game Peck and Stanley Harris played wonderful ball. In the last half of the ninth with one out, Harris picked up Pinch Hitter Clark's grounder, tagged second and with a quick pivot and throw to Judge without looking, got the ball to Adams in time to double up the batter and retire the side.

BLACK CREEK WINS TWO GAMES, 3-1, 2-0

Tailenders Jump To Fourth Place In Intercity League
Sunday

Black Creek Sunday afternoon jumped from the cellar to fourth place in the Intercity Baseball league by taking a twin bill from Embarrass, 3 to 1 and 2 to 0. The first contest went nine innings, while the second was called in the sixth.
Embarrass copped its lone run in the initial stanza of the first game on a brace of errors and Korte's advantage, 1 to 0, up to the seventh. Its first hit came in the last of the seventh, after Black Creek had tied the score. Starnard started the Black Creek rally with a single. He was sacrificed to second and from there scored on a two-bagger. The Embarrass pitcher weakened in the ninth and allowed the Black Creek outfit three hits and a walk, good for two runs. A twin killing in the ninth spoiled an attempt of the losers to come back.
In the second contest Black Creek scored in the first and again in the third, while Embarrass was held scoreless.
Starnard and Pollman were Black Creek's battery in the first game, and Crowley replaced Starnard in the second.

ALL TEXAS LIVESTOCK BARRED FROM WISCONSIN

By Associated Press
Madison—A quarantine on all shipments of livestock and similar products from Texas into Wisconsin was ordered Monday by Dr. V. S. Larson, director of state livestock sanitation. The action was occasioned by the recent outbreak of foot and mouth disease in Texas, it was said.
The order prohibits the shipment of all hides, skins, hoofs of cattle, sheep and other stock, of hay, straw or similar products and packing materials originating in Texas into Wisconsin. The order is effective Monday. The order declares that an emergency exists regarding the spread of foot and mouth disease and that quarantine is levied to prevent spread of the disease into Wisconsin herds.

MANITOWOC KLANSMEN BURN CROSS IN HARBOR

By Associated Press
Manitowoc—A new stunt in burning Ku Klux Klan crosses was started here Sunday night when a large cross was towed to the mouth of the harbor, anchored and set afire where it could be plainly seen from the entire lake front and from Eighth and Tenth-st. bridges.
The Ann Arbor ferry steamed around the cross which was permitted to burn itself out. The Klan is staging a big public meeting outside of the city Monday night.

WHO IS "THE SATIN GIRL"?
Mysterious Depredations of Elusive Woman Puzzle Police—Specializes in Precious Gems.

Feminine "Robin Hood" Robs Rich And Gives to the Poor
Local police circles are considerably mystified and are being harassed to no small extent by the depredations of a mysterious young woman, said to be very beautiful, who has been termed the "Satin Girl" because the only time that she was almost in the law's clutches, she escaped, but left a piece of her black satin dress in the hands of the officers.

The most remarkable thing about the matter is that the Satin Girl robs only wealthy people, usually of gems, and then spends much of the result in charity. Baskets of food, etc., are frequently received by poor people, with a black card on which is penned in white ink: "From 'The Satin Girl.'"

The robbery of the Grace Diamonds is one of her latest exploits and also of the famous necklace of brilliant gems worn by Mrs. Brown-Potter. These robberies have been treated in another column.

Dr. Richard Taunton, widely known philanthropist, physician and criminologist, is interested in the case and is aiding in a scientific way the efforts of Detective Sergeant Moran and others, to apprehend the mysterious young malefactor.

For the further developments in this interesting case, see "The Satin Girl," starring Mabel Forrest, with Norman Kerry featured, at the New

Illinois And Nebraska Squads Clash Saturday

Chicago—The meeting of Illinois and Nebraska next Saturday in one of the most important football clashes of the season shares in interest with the Purdue-Ohio State game which opens the Western conference schedule as Big Ten teams take their final pre-opener workouts this week.

Harold "Red" Grange and Earl Britton are three mainstays of the Illinois attack, but Coach Fred Dawson of Nebraska, former Princeton athlete, has Roland Locke one of the best sprinters of the Missouri Valley conference, and A. Mandery, dash star, at halves and Doug Myers, stellar track weight performer at fullback. Illinois has the advantage of experienced man, but the corn huskers have promising recruits to augment the veterans.

Purdue has a slight advantage over Columbus in its victorious opener last Saturday, while the Buckeyes make their first appearance. Despite inclement weather, both teams continued their preparation with all players in good condition except Bruno Merkord of Purdue out for two weeks with a dislocated ankle.

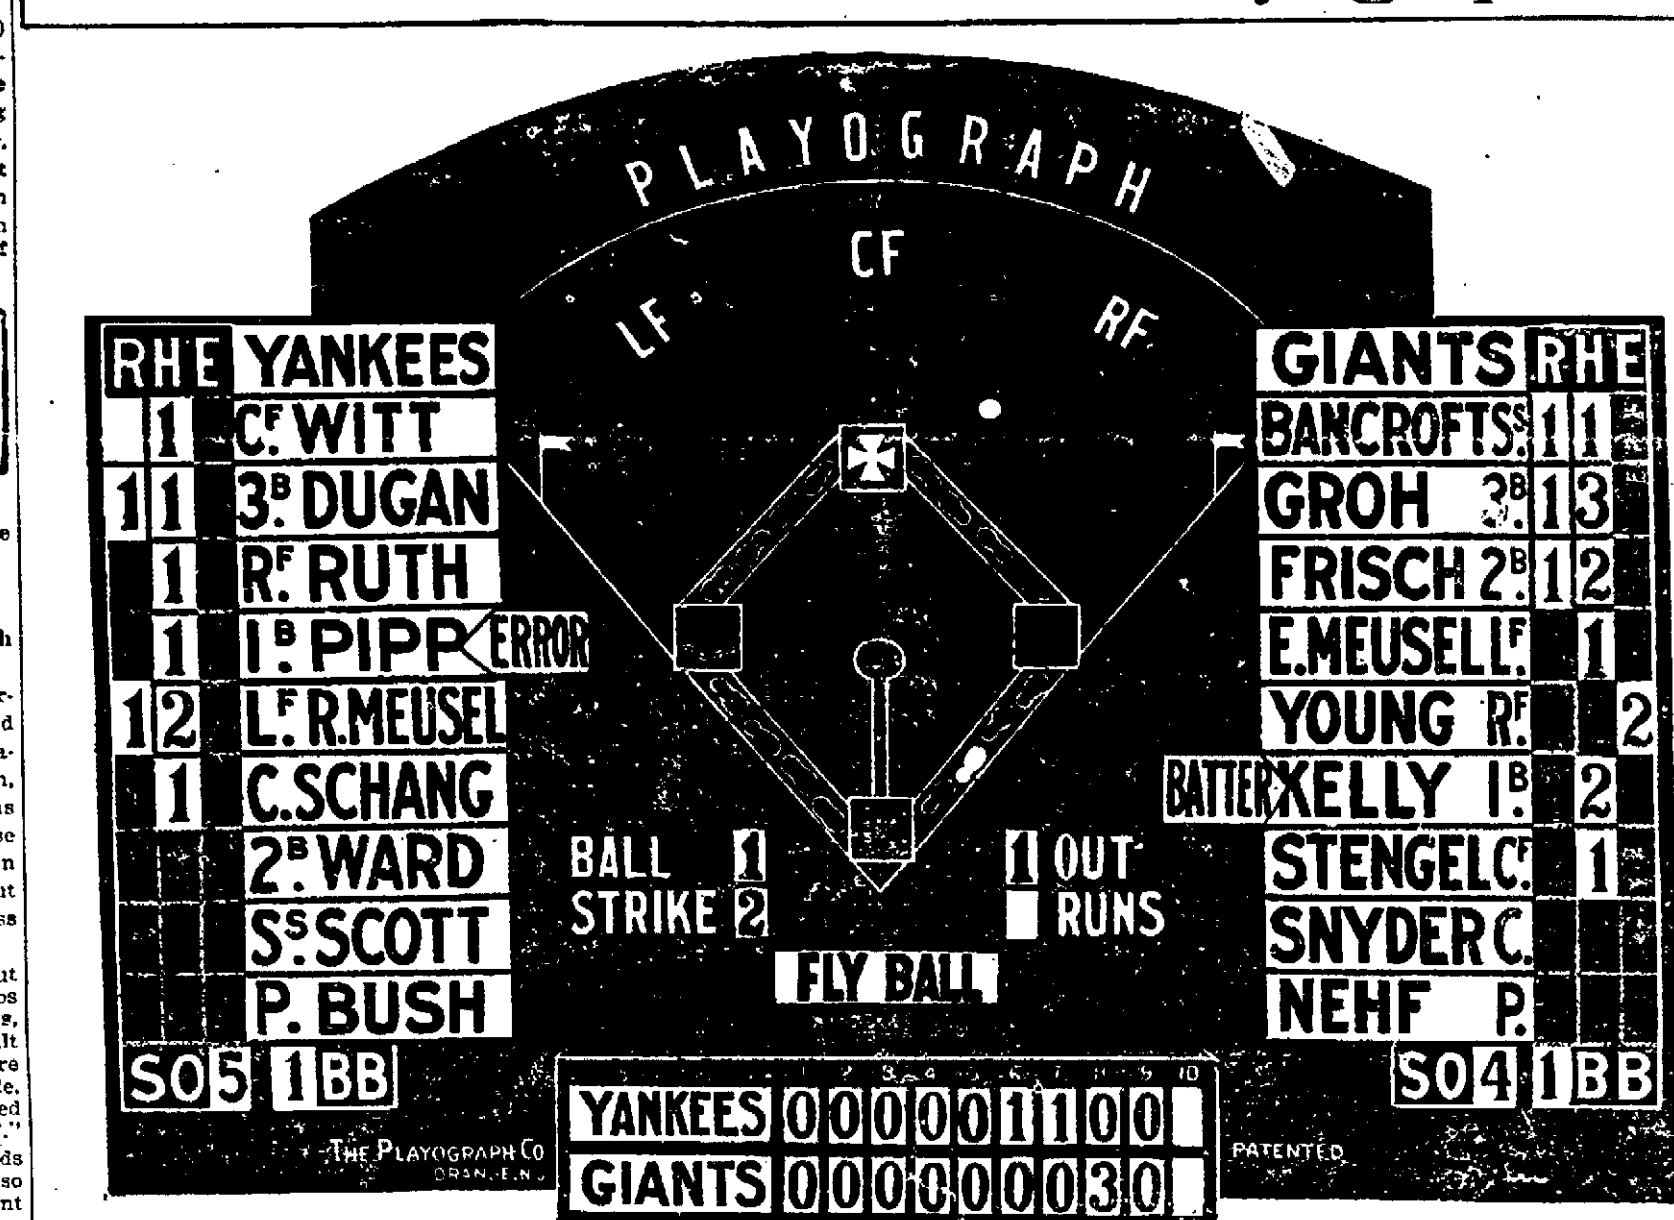

Comparatively easy games are in prospect for the remainder of the Western conference teams, but stiffer contests later in the season are the objectives of coaches who continue vigorous training. Wisconsin is experimenting with hushed combinations to eliminate weak spots since Ames, Saturday's opponent, is expected to offer more rigid opposition than the North Dakotans did last week.

A number of regulars are missing from the Minnesota lineup, grooming itself for North Dakota. Indiana has a tougher foe in DePauw than Rose Poly last week and has two players—former Captain "Stew" Butler and S. Fisher, in the hospital. A minor injury to his knee keeps Harry Thomas, Chicago veteran, out of the scrimmage as his mates devote their efforts to plays calculated to win from Missouri. Signals and plays for South Dakota Saturday are occupying North western's attention. The half-back job at Iowa causes concern among coaches who have developed Graham, fullback last year, into a likely candidate for the berth. Michigan's gates are closed for the week while Coach Yost directs his proteges in passing.

Notre Dame is weighing the strength of Lombard, its guest this weekend, and is spending the greater portion of the week in signals and skeleton drill.

Watch The Ball On The Playograph

PLAY BALL!
The ears of baseball fans all over this country will be attuned to American League park in Washington next Saturday for the umpire's order that will start the 1925 World Series baseball games. Not in several years have followers of the great national sport been so engrossed in a pennant race as they were this year. Ever since Washington became a contender for the American league flag fans have been pulling for the plucky Senators and the last few days they have hung intently on telegraph wires and radio sets for word from the battle front.

Realizing the intense interest which

Appleton fans have in the world series, The Post-Crescent has arranged to provide them with a "de luxe" report on the classic. It has erected a Playograph, the last word in mechanical baseball boards, on the front of its building and on this board it will reenact every play as it is made on the baseball fields in Washington and New York.

Watching a game played on this board is the next thing to seeing the actual game in the field. Every play as it is made on the diamond by the champions is reenacted with utmost fidelity on the board. A moving ball shows every ball, every strike, every hit, every play as it is made on the field. Base runners circle the bases as they do in a real game. The illusion of watching the game is almost perfect.

The report of the game will be received in the office of the Post-Crescent over Associated Press Telegraph wires run into the playing fields. The receiving instrument, with the operator, will be set immediately below the board and each play as it is made in Washington or New York, will be shown on the Playograph within a second or two after it is made in the east.

The Playograph was erected several days ago and the operating crew has mastered its intricacies and is ready for the opening game on Saturday, Oct. 4. The games will start at 2 o'clock, eastern standard time, which will be 1 o'clock in Appleton.

Baseball fans are invited to gather in front of the Post-Crescent building every afternoon during the series to watch the games. Dozens of people who watched the board in operation while the operators were learning how to manipulate it are enthused over the way the game can be reenacted. Appleton is one of the few cities of its size in the United States in which mechanical baseball boards are in operation.

Bijou theatre Wednesday and Thursday. It is a Ben Wilson production for Grand-Asher, directed by Arthur Rosson, and is said to be the mystery picture of the year.

REAL APPEAL IN "THE TURMOIL"

There are some plays that depend on mystery for their appeal; some on dramatic action or surprise climaxes; some purely on thrills and excitement, but after all, the greatest appeal in a play is in humanness. This is well exemplified in "The Turmoil," Hobart Henley's Universal-Jewel picture, playing at the Elite theatre tonight for the last time.

The play has all qualities, one laughs with its characters, one weeps with them; its smashing dramatic episodes thrill; but over all these things, the play is great because it is life itself. Booth Tarkington, perhaps better than any author, knows how to get real human beings into his stories.

It is a powerful story, the tale of a self-made millionaire, imperious, ruthless and indomitable, fighting ever to gain more dollars. The son, a temperamental youth with the soul of an artist, he struggles to break to his will.

SPENDS 50 MINUTES ON LINCOLN MAKE-UP

It took George Billings, who plays the title role in "Abraham Lincoln," Al and Ray Rockett's picture, of the life story of Lincoln which will be shown at the Elite theatre beginning Wednesday, a full fifty minutes to make-up his appearance as Lincoln before the camera. Although Billings is actually the exact height and size of Lincoln, the utmost care was taken that the facial resemblance should be perfect.

The make-up consisted only of affixing the beard to Billings' face. The actor's features are said to be

ELOPED WITH NIECE

Grantsburg, Wis.—One Dec. 14, 1923 Marion Christopherson, 17, honor student at the high school here, vanished from Minneapolis with her uncle by marriage, Dr. Robert C. Frank. On the pretext that he was ill, Dr. Frank left his bride of two months ostensibly to go to Albuquerque, N. M., and contrived an elopement with his young niece by asking at the last moment that she be allowed to accompany him in order that he might be cared for. His promise was to send for his bride and her family when he reached the south.
Two days after the "doctor" and Marion had left Minneapolis, a postcard was received by his wife from Kansas City in which he said they were "both well and happy" and urged her "not to worry." That was the last heard from the eloping couple until three months later. Marion wandered into the Salvation army home in San Francisco deserted by her uncle, penniless, but still vowing her love for him.
A police search for Frank was extended to all parts of the south. His arrest on a charge of speeding in a Louisiana town, three weeks after Marion was found led to Frank being jailed when police became suspicious of the ownership of his car. When the machine was found to be stolen, he confessed his identity and found himself facing numerous charges.
He was convicted on the charge of automobile theft and sentenced to 18 months in the Atlanta penitentiary.

MICHIGAN FARMERS GET INSPIRATION IN OUTAGAMIE-CO

150 Visitors Pleased with Splendid Herds on Outa-gamie Dairy Farms

W. F. WNEY

After visiting the Pamperin Guernsey farm at Green Bay, the group of 150 farmers from the upper peninsula of Michigan, now touring the state, arrived in thirty cars at the Tubbs Bros. farm Seymour at 10:30 Tuesday. Inspected the Holstein herd on the later farm, dined in the Seymour auditorium, inspected the herd of Brown Swiss cattle on the farm of William Hurst, town of Osborn, and then proceeded west to Winnebago-co.

These farmers representing fourteen of the fifteen counties of upper Michigan are traveling under the leadership of E. G. Amos, state director for Michigan of county agent work, assisted by ten other county agents of the same state. One-half of the group are real dirt farmers who are traveling at their own expense, one-fifth, boys from the various counties who are winners in calf clubs, sent out at the expense of Upper Peninsula Development Bureau and, excepting a number of women, the balance are connected with the agricultural college of Michigan. The development bureau is represented by its secretary-treasurer, G. E. Bishop, the extension department of the agricultural college by A. G. Kettunen, assistant state club leader, the Civic and Commercial association of Sault Ste. Marie, by its secretary, William Cummings and the practical dairymen, by Francis Belier.

MAKE OWN BUTTER

The inspiration of the visit of Michigan farmers to the dairy farms of Outagamie-co was very clearly put by Mr. Bishop in an after-dinner speech at the Seymour auditorium when he said that a short time ago, in his home town, he purchased a pound of butter in a grocery store, bearing a Juneau, Wisconsin, brand and that he knew, for the past thirty years, the people of Upper Michigan depended upon Outagamie and other counties of Wisconsin for their butter supply. "In a short time," said the speaker, "we intend to make all the butter we need and to cut off our part of the Wisconsin market."

Before inspecting the cattle on the Tubbs farm, the visitors listened to a biographical sketch of the Tubbs family, given off hand by Mrs. Peter Tubbs from the time she and her husband with the aid of a yoke of oxen, started from Dodge county Wisconsin and landed in the wilderness out of which Seymour has since been carved, to the time of her husband's death.

Where Mrs. Tubbs dropped the thread of her story, her son, Frank W. took it up and described admirably and instructively how his father had laid the foundation for modern dairying on the Tubbs farm and how the sons had developed it by the gradual introduction of purebred calves, modern machinery, alfalfa, the balanced ration and cow-testing.

The visitors inspected the stables, machinery and cattle on the Tubbs farm and then at a suggestion of R. M. Amundson, master of local ceremonies, went to the Seymour auditorium where the women of the Congregational church had prepared dinner for them. After dinner, Mayor Jones formally welcomed the visitors and Seymour girls entertained the audience. Mr. Bishop, Principal Aley and Mr. Bellenger responded to calls for speeches and Dr. R. C. Finkle entertained with sleight of hand. The visitors then went to the farm of William Hurst where the Michigan farmers listened to the owner's story of his experience with several kinds of dairy cattle, before finally adopting the Brown Swiss type of purebred.
